TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE BROADENS INQUIRY

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JUNIOR, ASKED TO TESTIFY ON SATURDAY

HE ACCEPTS SERVICE BY TELEGRAM AT NEW YORK CITY

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The senate Teapot Dome committee issued a subpoena today for John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to testify at its hearing Saturday.

Rockefeller accepted service by telegram at New York and notified the committee he would be present Saturday.

Subpoenas also were issued for clerks and officials of the Dominion Bank of Canada where some of the $3,000,000 bond profits of the Continental Trading Company deal were deposited. They will testify Saturday.

Senator Walsh of Montana, conducting the investigation, thought at first he would not call Rockefeller in view of the fact that his testimony had been received by correspondence. Rockefeller had written Walsh that he had urged appearance of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil of Indiana before the committee and that Stewart had told him several years ago the Standard had no unworthy part in the mysterious 1921 deal of oil men.

Rockefeller wrote he had counseled Stewart to tell all he knew of the deal.

Committee members, however, suggested that Rockefeller should submit his testimony under oath as every other witness has done, so the subpoena was issued.

Stewart was arrested under a senate warrant when he declined to answer all questions of the Teapot Dome committee. Decision on habeas corpus proceedings brought subsequently by Stewart is now pending.

SHELDON CLARK FREED BY COURT

By HERBERT LITTLE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—Sheldon Clark, Chicago oil man, one of six defendants in the Burns-Sinclair contempt case, was freed today by Justice Frederick L. Siddons of the district supreme court.

Siddons decided evidence against Clark in the shadowing of Fall-Sinclair jurors, was "slim," and dismissed the contempt charges against him. The trial of Harry F. Sinclair, W. J. Burns and others, arising from the jury shadowing, will continue.

Siddons held Clark's connection with the shadowing was "somewhat casual and accidental." He had come here as a character witness for Sinclair in the Sinclair-Fall conspiracy trial and then helped Henry Mason Day, another Sinclair official, in directing the Burns detective espionage.

Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company, is well known in Chicago politics and sports.

FATHER OF 8 CHILDREN SENTENCED TO PRISON

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—William Hawe, 38, is serving a sentence of one to 10 years at Stillwater state penitentiary although circumstances almost created a favorable impression for him in court here Wednesday.

Father of eight children, Hawe said "we didn't have anything much to eat and the coal was getting low, so I went out to see what I could pick up."

It was brought out at the hearing before Judge Frank E. Reed in district court that Hawe "went out and picked up" 45 gladstone bags. He hauled them away from a freight depot after representing himself as an employee of a transfer company.

Judge Reed's sentence was made after it was brought out that Hawe had been convicted on two previous occasions.

CONFESSED KILLER OF 13 PERSONS TO BE ELECTROCUTED

Huntsville, Tex., Feb. 9.—(UP)—George J. Hassell, confessed slayer of 13 persons, will be electrocuted in the state prison here tonight.

Hassell's last hope of escaping death disappeared yesterday when Governor Dan Moody refused executive clemency. Moody's decision was based on a sanity report which declared Hassell sane.

Hassell confessed to the murder of his wife and seven step-children at Farwell, Tex., and to five murders in California.

HICKMAN CASE IN FINAL STAGE, SOON WITH JURY

8 MEN, 4 WOMEN TO START DELIBERATION ON PUNISHMENT

ATTORNEYS FOR BOTH SIDES TO COMPLETE FINAL ARGUMENTS TODAY

By DAN CAMPBELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 9.—The trial of Edward Hickman reached its final stages today, and before nightfall, the jury of eight men and four women was expected to start deliberation on the punishment to be assessed against the slayer of Marion Parker.

Attorneys for both sides were to complete final arguments today. Then, after the judge's charge, the jury will write the last chapter of the trial by sending Hickman to the gallows or to an asylum for the criminal insane.

Richard Cantillon was to complete the defense plea to save Hickman from the gallows today, and then the state's attorneys were to have the closing word. Judge Trabucco said yesterday he would have his instructions to the jury ready by the time the attorneys concluded.

It was predicted the jury might disagree, in view of the detailed, technical testimony of alienists who in the last few days of the trial have done much to create confusion in the minds of those connected with the trial.

Court Room, Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Asa Keyes, fiery district attorney of Los Angeles county today demanded the life of William Edward Hickman in payment for the murder of Marion Parker.

Justice for the killing of the little school girl can be done only by sending the slayer to the gallows, Keyes told the superior court jury hearing Hickman's trial.

Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Branding William Edward Hickman as a "monster without a soul," District Attorney Asa Keyes at noon today finished final arguments in his trial for the murder of Marion Parker.

Keyes made a two-hour plea to the jury for a verdict holding Hickman sane at the time of his crime.

This verdict would make possible the sentence of death demanded by the state.

Judge J. J. Trabucco adjourned court until 2 P. M. after Keyes had finished.

At that time he will read his instructions to the jury of eight men and four women and the fate of "the Fox" will then be given into their hands.

Keyes' appeal to the jury was one of the most brilliant of his long career as an attorney.

The court room was jammed with spectators and many stood outside listening to him. His voice carried far down the corridors of the hall of justice as he urged to "do justice for this atrocious crime."

ROCKET FLIGHT TO VENUS NOW PLANNED TODAY

ROBERT CONDIT OF OHIO AWAITS FAVORABLE CONDITIONS FOR ATTEMPT

EXPECTS TO SHOOT OFF FROM HIS CONTRAPTION AT MIAMI BEACH

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Just 100 years from the day that Jules Verne was born in Nantes, France, Robert Condit of Ohio today awaited conditions favorable to a rocket-flight to Venus, 50,000,000 miles away.

Unlike the heroes of Jules Verne stories Condit sought to go farther away from the earth than any man has ever gone before.

He wanted to start today and said he was ready for the attempt but that atmospheric conditions were not right for the great test.

The inventor, who has been here several months, spending most of his time perfecting a rocketlike contraption for the flight, said he didn't wish to comment on Jules Verne.

"My ideas are original," Condit said. "They did not have their inception in Verne's novels. Maybe one of his characters did use a rocket to go to the moon. I want it understood that this new machine I have invented might be called a rocket, but it isn't just that."

In order to take advantage of the meteoric "stream motive power" as he described it, Condit says his flight must be made before March 4.

On this motive power he expects to float to Venus, once his contraption was out of range of the earth's gravity.

"I am more practical than any of Verne's heroes," commented the slight, bald-headed inventor.

"Venus, the objective of the projectile," he elucidated, "is a true sister of the earth, of practically the same size and atmospheric conditions."

"I believe it much easier to reach than the moon, despite the great distance, which my projectile will annihilate."

Condit, planning a journey into space far more capricious than Jules Verne's imagination-let him put into print, admitted the basic idea of his machine was like that Verne sent his man to the moon in.

"The rocket has always been the instrument favored by the early experimenters for use in interplanetary communication," said Condit, "but this modernized rocket of mine, that I am not at liberty now to explain in detail, is bound to be successful for it was constructed under entirely new mechanical principles."

Condit permits no one to go inside the wooden shack where he keeps the rocket.

GENE SHANK FETED IN HOME TOWN OF MORGAN

Morgan, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Gene Shank was feted at a ball here last night in his honor.

ATTORNEYS START RE-QUESTIONING OF JURORS TODAY

HAD BEEN TENTATIVELY ACCEPTED IN GOV. JACKSON TRIAL

FEAR TASK OF SELECTING JURY MAY NOW DRAG INTO TOMORROW

By W. E. HALLBERG (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court Room, Indianapolis, Feb. 9.—Attorneys started re-questioning of jurors already tentatively accepted when the trial of Gov. Ed. Jackson reopened here today, and as a result it was feared the task of selecting a jury might drag into tomorrow or even later.

When yesterday's opening session ended with seven jurors tentatively accepted by both sides, it was hoped the jury might be completed by tonight.

The defense verified reports that it would base its case primarily on a contention that the statute of limitations outlawed the bribery conspiracy charges against the governor, by questioning prospective jurors today on that point.

Talesmen were asked whether they would vote to acquit the governor if the defense sustained its contention that the statute outlawed the charge.

The state contends that Governor Jackson conspired to conceal the alleged crime. The statute of limitations does not apply in cases where attempts at concealment by the defendant can be proved.

IS CONFESSED SLAYER OF HIS SISTER-IN-LAW

WILLIAM HERRON, 41, HELD BY AUTHORITIES OF NEW PHILADELPHIA, O.

TUSCARAWAS RIVER DRAGGED TO FIND BODY OF 23-YEAR-OLD GIRL

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 9.—(UP)—William Herron, 41, confessed slayer of his 23-year-old sister-in-law, Viola May, was held under heavy guard today while authorities continued dragging the Tuscarawas river in an effort to find the girl's body.

Herron admitted choking the girl to death when she resisted his advances, County Prosecutor James Patrick said.

Herron drove to a bridge spanning the river at Dover, and dropped the girl's body into the water, the confession was quoted as saying.

The murder occurred Tuesday night, Herron appeared at the John Hening farm near here at 2 A. M. yesterday and said two armed men attacked him and kidnapped the girl.

Conflicting details developed in his story. After intensive questioning he broke down and confessed, Patrick said.

Miss May and another young woman, Evelyn Fretz, visited the former's sister Tuesday night. The attack on Miss May occurred after

HANFT DECISION THOUGHT REBUKE OF THE BIG THREE

ATTORNEY GENERAL YOUNGQUIST TO CARRY CASE TO SUPREME COURT

JUDGE HANFT DEFINITELY DETERMINED STATUS OF COMMISSION

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The legal tangle of the Big Three (state department of administration and finance) and the board of regents of the University of Minnesota has not ended it was indicated today.

After Judge Hugo Hanft in Ramsey county district court Wednesday handed down his board decision, which was interpreted in most circles as a rebuke of the Big Three, G. A. Youngquist, attorney general, announced that he would carry the case to the highest court in the state.

Attorney General Youngquist was expected to file an appeal shortly with the state supreme court.

Judge Hanft's far-reaching decision was expected to result in definitely determining the status of the powers of the Big Three.

His decision Wednesday said that "no such power was conceded by people to czar or iron chancellor, nor asserted by such."

The decision was made on the petition of the university board of regents for a writ of mandamus to compel the state auditor to issue a $50 warrant in connection with the regents' proposed faculty members' insurance and pension program. The university contended that authorization by the Big Three was not necessary. The auditor had refused to issue the warrant because the Big Three had not granted the authorization.

Seek Nonpartisan Endorsement as Gubernatorial Candidate

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Seven names are being prominently mentioned in the Nonpartisan endorsement for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

Included are:

Gov. A. G. Sorlie, who has maintained consistently that he is not a candidate for re-election; Seth Richardson, Fargo; and A. J. Scott, Grand Forks, secretary of the North Dakota Wheat Growers' association.

Commercial Secretaries to Meet in St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—The annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Commercial Secretaries opened here this morning.

The convention will continue through Friday. H. F. Dooley of Faribault, is president of the association.

Herron had driven Miss Fretz home and was enroute home with Miss May.

Herron said he drove to a gravel pit on the Dover-Kanton highway and parked. He then attempted to attack the girl, and a violent quarrel ensued, Patrick said.

Apparently enraged, Herron choked the girl, then drove to the Dover bridge, where he dropped the body into the river.

"I choked her," Patrick said Herron confessed. "I guess I choked her too long."

The sheriff's office was called after Herron appeared at the Hening farm. His automobile was found, abandoned. Buttons from Miss May's coat, a ragged piece of her skirt and her glasses, the lenses broken, were found in the machine. Herron's story of the supposed kidnapping, followed.

SUBTERRANEAN EXPLOSION PRECEDES EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

Lisbon, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A tremendous subterranean explosion, which sent people rushing into the streets to kneel and pray for divine intervention, preceded violent earthquake shocks in the Serra d'Ossa mountain district of southeastern Portugal today.

The shocks were felt in the towns of Alvilto, Mora, Redondo, Reguengos and Estremoz in Alentejo province, and were reflected in less violent measure in other provinces.

COAL COMPANY CHARGED WITH HIRING GUNMEN

REP. CASEY, DEMOCRAT, MAKES SPEECH IN CONGRESS TODAY

DECLARES HE HAS 218 AFFIDAVITS SETTING FORTH BRUTAL ASSAULTS

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The Pittsburgh Coal Company, a Mellon corporation, was charged with chief responsibility for employment of "private gunmen" against striking Pennsylvania soft coal miners, in a speech in the house today by Rep. Casey, democrat, Pennsylvania.

Casey declared he had 218 affidavits of men and women setting forth "brutal assaults that have been committed by coal and iron police in the employ of coal companies which are carrying on a vicious campaign for destruction of the United Mine Workers of America and lowering of coal miner's wages."

"These coal and iron police are commissioned by the state, but they are hired and paid by local companies who direct their activities," Casey said.

"It is martial law with an armed force of private gunmen to terrorize and assault American citizens."

"No matter from what angle one approaches the situation, he sooner or later arrives on the doorstep of the Pittsburgh Coal Company," the Mellon company.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was attacked by Casey for remaining silent and "allowing the Jacksonville wage agreement which he sponsored to be scrapped."

"Is it a presidential injunction or presidential yellowness?" Casey asked. "If he thinks he can get the vote of the mine operators who have broken their agreement, perhaps he can but there are four or five million miners who will not vote for him."

Miners' representatives found "indifference and a don't care attitude" when they went to the White House, Casey added.

N. P. RY. CO. FOREST LAND ATTACKED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Attorney General Sargent today recommended to congress confiscation of more than $100,000,000 of forest land held by the Northern Pacific railroad under old land grants, to be followed by submission of the entire controversy over the holdings to courts for adjustment.

The government claims the Northern Pacific obtained about 5,000,000 acres too much on land grants for $1,000,000 acres about 60 years ago, while the railroad contends the government still owes about $750,000 acres.

In his report responsive to a congressional request, Sargent declared courts differed on whether question of forfeiture or reversion of the lands rests with the legislative or executive branch.

He suggested, however, that a congressional notice of intent to declare a forfeiture, followed by court action instituted by the executive, would serve to eliminate questions of authority and clear the way "for a judicial determination, just to both the United States and the railroad company."

TO LEAVE AT DAWN MONDAY, 1200 MILE TRIP

THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED BEFORE HOP-OFF

CUBAN HOSPITALITY EXPANDS TO ENORMOUS GREETINGS

Havana, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Charles A. Lindbergh will make a non-stop flight from Havana to St. Louis Monday.

He planned to take off at dawn for the 1,200 mile trip. The Spirit of St. Louis will be gone over thoroughly before the long flight.

By ALFRED P. RECK (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Feb. 9.—Cuban hospitality expanded today in an enormous greeting to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the boyish American flyer, who drifted from the sky yesterday with a message of good will from the United States.

The nation, eager to do its greatest honor to this flying son of a sister republic, permitted Lindbergh to rest last night after his trying 750-mile flight from Haiti, but today demanded to show that hospitality in dear to all Latin peoples.

Lindbergh retired shortly after 10 o'clock last night at the home of American Ambassador Noble B. Judah. His face appeared somewhat drawn after the flight from Haiti, and Cuba had nothing on the program to interfere with his rest.

But beginning at noon today Lindbergh was to be the center of a round of joyous welcome from all Cuba.

He was to attend a luncheon given by army officers at Camp Columbia, historically famous as the birthplace of many American soldiers during the Spanish-American war. Then at 4 P. M., he was to greet many of his fellow countrymen at the home of Ambassador Judah. Already 1,000 have signified their intentions of attending and to this number probably will be added 1,000 more.

He will have dinner with the ambassador this evening and at 9 o'clock will attend a dance at the Havana Yacht Club.

Friday at 11 A. M., he will receive a medal from the Cuban secretary of state and at noon in a great open air reception in Central Park he will be given the keys to the city.

At this reception the great masses of Cubans will be permitted to show Lindbergh their pleasure at his visit.

He will be a luncheon guest of the Cuban Aero Club at 1:30 P. M., that day and at 9 P. M., will attend a state dinner given by President Machado at the National Theater.

Saturday the flyer will be extended a luncheon by the American Chamber of Commerce at the campo and at 4 P. M., will attend a reception for veterans of the Spanish-American war at the Judah home.

He will attend a meeting of the Cuban Geographic Society at 8:30 P. M. Saturday and at 10 P. M. he will attend a dance at the Havana Yacht Club.

Sunday is planned as a day of rest and on Monday at dawn he will start a non-stop flight to St. Louis.

ARRESTS BY DRY FORCE OFFICERS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Arrests by the prohibition enforcement department reached a new high mark during January, S. S. Quale, northwest administrator announced last yesterday.

There were 249 arrests, compared with 153 for the same month of last year. This was also a considerable increase over December, Quale reported.

There were 59 stills, 26,857 gallons of mash and molasses liquor and 15 automobiles seized. A total of 261 persons were recommended for prosecution.

SENATE OIL QUIZ SUBPOENAES ROCKEFELLER

TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE BROADENS INQUIRY

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JUNIOR, ASKED TO TESTIFY ON SATURDAY

HE ACCEPTS SERVICE BY TELEGRAM AT NEW YORK CITY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The senate Teapot Dome committee issued a subpoena today for John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to testify at its hearing Saturday.

Rockefeller accepted service by telegram at New York and notified the committee he would be present Saturday.

Subpoenae also were issued for clerks and officials of the Dominion Bank of Canada where some of the $3,000,000 bond profits of the Continental Trading Company deal were deposited. They will testify Saturday.

Senator Walsh of Montana, conducting the investigation, thought at first he would not call Rockefeller in view of the fact that his testimony had been received by correspondence. Rockefeller had written Walsh that he had urged appearance of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil of Indiana before the committee and that Stewart had told him several years ago the Standard had no unworthy part in the mysterious 1921 deal of oil men.

Rockefeller wrote he had counseled Stewart to tell all he knew of the deal.

Committee members, however, suggested that Rockefeller should submit his testimony under oath as every other witness has done, so the subpoena was issued.

Stewart was arrested under a senate warrant when he declined to answer all questions of the Teapot Dome committee. Decision on habeas corpus proceedings brought subsequently by Stewart is now pending.

SHELDON CLARK FREED BY COURT

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—Sheldon Clark, Chicago oil man, one of six defendants in the Burns-Sinclair contempt case, was freed today by Justice Frederick L. Siddons of the district supreme court.

Siddons decided evidence against Clark in the shadowing of Fall-Sinclair jurors, was "slim," and dismissed the contempt charges against him. The trial of Harry F. Sinclair, W. J. Burns and others, arising from the jury shadowing, will continue.

Siddons held Clark's connection with the shadowing was "somewhat casual and accidental." He had come here as a character witness for Sinclair in the Sinclair-Fall conspiracy trial and then helped Henry Mason Day, another Sinclair official, in directing the Burns detective espionage.

FATHER OF 8 CHILDREN SENTENCED TO PRISON

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—William Howe, 38, is serving a sentence of one to 10 years at Stillwater state penitentiary although circumstances almost created a favorable impression for him in court here Wednesday.

Father of eight children, Howe said "we didn't have anything much to eat and the coal was getting low, so I went out to see what I could pick up."

It was brought out at the hearing before Judge Frank E. Reed in district court that Howe "went out and picked up" 45 gladstone bags. He hauled them away from a freight depot after representing himself as an employee of a transfer company.

Judge Reed's sentence was made after it was brought out that Howe had been convicted on two previous occasions.

CONFESSED KILLER OF 13 PERSONS TO BE ELECTROCUTED

Huntsville, Tex., Feb. 9.—(UP)—George J. Hassell, confessed slayer of 13 persons, will be electrocuted in the state prison here tonight.

Hassell's last hope of escaping death disappeared yesterday when Governor Dan Moody refused executive clemency. Moody's decision was based on a sanity report which declared Hassell sane.

Hassell confessed to the murder of his wife and seven step-children at Farwell, Tex., and to five murders in California.

HICKMAN CASE IN FINAL STAGE, SOON WITH JURY

8 MEN, 4 WOMEN TO START DELIBERATION ON PUNISHMENT

ATTORNEYS FOR BOTH SIDES TO COMPLETE FINAL ARGUMENTS TODAY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 9.—The trial of Edward Hickman reached its final stages today, and before nightfall, the jury of eight men and four women was expected to start deliberation on the punishment to be assessed against the slayer of Marion Parker.

Attorneys for both sides were to complete final arguments today. Then, after the judge's charge, the jury will write the last chapter of the trial by sending Hickman to the gallows or to an asylum for the criminal insane.

Richard Cantillon was to complete the defense plea to save Hickman from the gallows today, and then the state's attorneys were to have the closing word. Judge Trabucco said yesterday he would have his instructions to the jury ready by the time the attorneys concluded.

It was predicted the jury might disagree, in view of the detailed, technical testimony of alienists who in the last few days of the trial have done much to create confusion in the minds of those connected with the trial.

Court Room, Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Asa Keyes, fiery district attorney of Los Angeles county today demanded the life of William Edward Hickman in payment for the murder of Marion Parker.

Justice for the killing of the little school girl can be done only by sending the slayer to the gallows, Keyes told the superior court jury hearing Hickman's trial.

Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Branding William Edward Hickman as a "monster without a soul," District Attorney Asa Keyes at noon today finished final arguments in his trial for the murder of Marion Parker.

Keyes made a two-hour plea to the jury for a verdict holding Hickman sane at the time of his crime.

This verdict would make possible the sentence of death demanded by the state.

Judge J. J. Trabucco adjourned court until 2 P. M. after Keyes had finished.

At that time he will read his instructions to the jury of eight men and four women and the fate of "the Fox" will then be given into their hands.

Keyes' appeal to the jury was one of the most brilliant of his long career as an attorney.

The court room was jammed with spectators and many stood outside listening to him. His voice carried far down the corridors of the hall of justice as he urged to "do justice for this atrocious crime."

ROCKET FLIGHT TO VENUS NOW PLANNED TODAY

ROBERT CONDIT OF OHIO AWAITS FAVORABLE CONDITIONS FOR ATTEMPT

EXPECTS TO SHOOT OFF FROM HIS CONTRAPTION AT MIAMI BEACH

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Just 100 years from the day that Jules Verne was born in Nantes, France, Robert Condit of Ohio today awaited conditions favorable to a rocket-flight to Venus, 50,000,000 miles away.

Unlike the heroes of Jules Verne stories Condit sought to go farther away from the earth than any man has ever gone before.

ATTORNEYS START RE-QUESTIONING OF JURORS TODAY

HAD BEEN TENTATIVELY ACCEPTED IN GOV. JACKSON TRIAL

FEAR TASK OF SELECTING JURY MAY NOW DRAG INTO TOMORROW

By W. E. HALLBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court Room, Indianapolis, Feb. 9.—Attorneys started re-questioning of jurors already tentatively accepted when the trial of Gov. Ed. Jackson reopened here today, and as a result it was feared the task of selecting a jury might drag into tomorrow or even later.

When yesterday's opening session ended with seven jurors tentatively accepted by both sides, it was hoped the jury might be completed by tonight.

The defense verified reports that it would base its case primarily on a contention that the statute of limitations outlawed the bribery conspiracy charges against the governor, by questioning prospective jurors today on that point.

Talesmen were asked whether they would vote to acquit the governor if the defense sustained its contention that the statute outlawed the charge.

The state contends that Governor Jackson conspired to conceal the alleged crime. The statute of limitations does not apply in cases where attempts at concealment by the defendant can be proved.

HANFT DECISION THOUGHT REBUKE OF THE BIG THREE

ATTORNEY GENERAL YOUNQUIST TO CARRY CASE TO SUPREME COURT

JUDGE HANFT DEFINITELY DETERMINED STATUS OF COMMISSION

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The legal tangle of the Big Three (state department of administration and finance) and the board of regents of the University of Minnesota has not ended it was indicated today.

After Judge Hugo Hanft in Ramsey county district court Wednesday handed down his board decision, which was interpreted in most circles as a rebuke of the Big Three, G. A. Youngquist, attorney general, announced that he would carry the case to the highest court in the state.

Attorney General Youngquist was expected to file an appeal shortly with the state supreme court.

Judge Hanft's far-reaching decision was expected to result in definitely determining the status of the powers of the Big Three.

His decision Wednesday said that "no such power was conceded by people to czar or iron chancellor, nor asserted by such."

The decision was made on the petition of the university board of regents for a writ of mandamus to compel the state auditor to issue a $50 warrant in connection with the regents' proposed faculty members' insurance and pension program. The university contended that authorization by the Big Three was not necessary. The auditor had refused to issue the warrant because the Big Three had not granted the authorization.

Commercial Secretaries to Meet in St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—The annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Commercial Secretaries opened here this morning. The convention will continue through Friday. H. F. Dooley of Faribault, is president of the association.

Herron had driven Miss Fretz home and was enroute home with Miss May.

Herron said he drove to a gravel pit on the Dover-Kanton highway and parked. He then attempted to attack the girl, and a violent quarrel ensued, Patrick said. Apparently enraged, Herron choked the girl, then drove to the Dover bridge, where he dropped the body into the river.

"I choked her," Patrick said Herron confessed. "I guess I choked her too long."

The sheriff's office was called after Herron appeared at the Hening farm. His automobile was found abandoned. Buttons from Miss May's coat, a ragged piece of her skirt and her glasses, the lenses broken, were found in the machine. Herron's story of the supposed kidnapping, followed.

SUBTERRANEAN EXPLOSION PRECEDES EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

Lisbon, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A tremendous subterranean explosion, which sent people rushing into the streets to kneel and pray for divine intervention, preceded violent earthquake shocks in the Serra d'Ossa mountain district of southwestern Portugal today.

The shocks were felt in the towns of Alentejo, Mora, Redondo, Reguengos and Estremoz in Alentejo province, and were reflected in less violent measure in other provinces.

COAL COMPANY CHARGED WITH HIRING GUNMEN

REP. CASEY, DEMOCRAT, MAKES SPEECH IN CONGRESS TODAY

DECLARES HE HAS 218 AFFIDAVITS SETTING FORTH BRUTAL ASSAULTS

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The Pittsburgh Coal Company, a Mellon corporation, was charged with chief responsibility for employment of "private gunmen" against striking Pennsylvania soft coal miners, in a speech in the house today by Rep. Casey, democrat, Pennsylvania.

Casey declared he had 218 affidavits of men and women setting forth "brutal assaults that have been committed by coal and iron police in the employ of coal companies which are carrying on a vicious campaign for destruction of the United Mine Workers of America and lowering of coal miner's wages."

"These coal and iron police are commissioned by the state, but they are hired and paid by local companies who direct their activities," Casey said. "It is martial law with an armed force of private gunmen to terrorize and assault American citizens."

"No matter from what angle one approaches the situation, he sooner or later arrives on the doorstep of the Pittsburgh Coal Company," the Mellon company.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was attacked by Casey for remaining silent and "allowing the Jacksonville wage agreement which he sponsored to be scrapped."

"Is it a presidential injunction or presidential yellowness?" Casey asked. "If he thinks he can get the vote of the mine operators who have broken their agreement, perhaps he can but there are four or five million miners who will not vote for him."

Miners' representatives found "indifference and a don't care attitude" when they went to the White House, Casey added.

N. P. RY. CO. FOREST LAND ATTACKED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Attorney General Sargent today recommended to congress confiscation of more than $100,000,000 of forest land held by the Northern Pacific railroad under old land grants, to be followed by submission of the entire controversy over the holdings to courts for adjustment.

The government claims the Northern Pacific obtained about 5,000,000 acres too much on land grants for 14,000,000 acres about 60 years ago, while the railroad contends the government still owes about 3,750,000 acres.

In his report responsive to a congressional request, Sargent declared courts differed on whether question of forfeiture or revesting of the lands rests with the legislative or executive branch. He suggested, however, that a congressional notice of intent to declare a forfeiture, followed by court action instituted by the executive, would serve to eliminate questions of authority and clear the way "for a judicial determination, just to both the United States and the railroad company."

TO LEAVE AT DAWN MONDAY, 1200 MILE TRIP

THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED BEFORE HOP-OFF

CUBAN HOSPITALITY EXPANDS TO ENORMOUS GREETINGS

Havana, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Charles A. Lindbergh will make a non-stop flight from Havana to St. Louis Monday.

He planned to take off at dawn for the 1,200 mile trip. The Spirit of St. Louis will be gone over thoroughly before the long flight.

By ALFRED P. RECK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Feb. 9.—Cuban hospitality expanded today in an enormous greeting to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the boyish American flyer, who drifted from the sky yesterday with a message of good will from the United States.

The nation, eager to do its greatest honor to this flying son of a sister republic, permitted Lindbergh to rest last night after his trying 750-mile flight from Haiti, but today demanded to show that hospitality is dear to all Latin peoples.

Lindbergh retired shortly after 10 o'clock last night at the home of American Ambassador Noble B. Judah. His face appeared somewhat drawn after the flight from Haiti, and Cuba had nothing on the program to interfere with his rest.

But beginning at noon today Lindbergh was to be the center of a round of joyous welcome from all Cuba.

He was to attend a luncheon given by army officers at Camp Cienfuegos, historically famous as the birthplace of many American soldiers during the Spanish-American war. Then at 4 P. M., he was to greet many of his fellow countrymen at the home of Ambassador Judah. Already 1,500 have signed their intentions of attending and to this number probably will be added 1,000 more.

He will have dinner with the ambassador this evening and at 9 o'clock will attend a dance at the Havana Yacht Club.

Friday at 11 A. M., he will receive a medal from the Cuban secretary of state and at noon in a great open air reception in Central Park he will be given the keys to the city. At this reception the great masses of Cubans will be permitted to show Lindbergh their pleasure at his visit.

He will be a luncheon guest of the Cuban Aero Club at 1:30 P. M., that day and at 9 P. M., will attend a state dinner given by President Machado at the National Theater.

Saturday the flyer will be extended a luncheon by the American Chamber of Commerce at the casino and at 4 P. M., will attend a reception for veterans of the Spanish-American war at the Judah home. He will attend a meeting of the Cuban Geographic Society at 8:30 P. M. Saturday and at 10 P. M. he will attend a dance at the Havana Yacht Club.

Sunday is planned as a day of rest and on Monday at dawn he will start a non-stop flight to St. Louis.

ARRESTS BY DRY FORCE OFFICERS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Arrests by the prohibition enforcement department reached a new high mark during January. S. B. Qvale, northwest administrator announced late yesterday.

There were 249 arrests, compared with 153 for the same month of last year. This was also a considerable increase over December. Qvale reported.

There were 59 stills, 26,857 gallons of mash and moonshine liquor and 15 automobiles seized. A total of 261 persons were recommended for prosecution.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 9, 1903

An important conference has been held in St. Paul between State Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner C. F. Staples, State Treasurer Block, Public Examiner Johnson, and State Auditor Iverson. The subject discussed was the best manner of procedure in the matter of referring to and dealing with the delinquent railroad taxes discovered by Public Examiner Johnson during the latter part of the year 1902.

During the period from June 1, 1892 to January 1, 1903, Public Examiner Johnson discovered $275,000 of delinquent taxes stretching over several years. He expects to find much more before his researches are over.

It would seem that the meeting of the Third Ward voters the other night to decide on the matter of dividing the ward will serve only to voice the sentiment of the ward on the matter; that the only manner in which action can be taken lies with the charter commission. This commission which meets every Wednesday evening can take the matter up, and will in all probability take under consideration the action of the Third Warders at the meeting held on Friday evening.

An endeavor is to be made to raise the bounty on horse thieves to $200 in Minnesota.

A Dispatch editorial states: "Will the taxpayers vote to issue $40,000 in bonds for a remodeled school building that will be unsatisfactory at best, and most inconveniently located? Well, hardly."

1927 MARRIAGES

Dan Cupid was a busier love emissary in 1927 than in 1926, marriage license figures for this county, released today at the office of the clerk of the district court show.

During the past year there were 187 marriage licenses taken out at the office of the clerk while in 1926 there were 172 licenses issued. Against this there were 25 divorces in Crow Wing county in 1927 while 19 were recorded in 1926.

In spite of the fact that this is leap year, a fall off of one marriage license was noted in January, 1928, in comparison to the same month the previous year. Eleven marriages were recorded in January, 1927, while ten were reported in January, 1928.

APRONS FROM FLOUR BAGS

Utility is the first duty of an apron, unless you are talking about those little bearded affairs of voile or dainty that are sometimes worn for serving tea or when doing dainty sewing. But for honest-to-goodness housework in and out of the kitchen, something that can stand being washed or even boiled every week. Half a dozen extremely practical aprons may be made out of as many empty flour bags which almost any baker has on hand and is glad to sell for a few cents. Unripped, the goods measure about 36x42 inches, large enough to take your favorite apron pattern unless you require them to be sleeved or extremely voluminous. To remove the stamping, cover the inked spots with lard or soak them in kerosene overnight. Then wash the bag out in lukewarm water. The edges may be hemmed, button-holed or bound with bias tape. Patch pockets are bound with the same color tape. String ties are no longer used much on aprons as they take too much material and ironing. Slip-over straps or a straight band across the back and snap fasteners answer the purpose as well.

When making these aprons for Christmas gifts, bridal showers or for bazaar, they can be quickly and effectively decorated with conventional designs worked in outline, running or cross-stitch or with the popular applique motifs.

Another type of apron that can, with a little more labor, be made from flour bags, is the smock. These are particularly useful for general wear about the house or garden in the mornings as they take the place of a dress. They give a delightfully youthful appearance. Three bags are needed to make a smock. The collar, cuffs and patch pockets can be of green, henna or delft blue linen or cotton.

SIR KNIGHTS HONOR

Masonic Lodge Rooms Scene of Banquet and Entertainment Last Evening

O. E. S. LADIES SERVE

Leading Lodge Officers on Speaking Platform; Bridge Follows Business Meet

On Tuesday evening, the Sir Knights of the Ascalon Commandery, No. 16, entertained their ladies and visitors from surrounding towns at the Masonic lodge rooms. A banquet was enjoyed at 6:30 o'clock served by the ladies of Alpha Chapter, O. E. S., which was a credit to that organization. The tables were decorated with baskets of red tulips, and the following menu served: roast beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, fruit salad, celery, cherry jam, beet relish, spiced apples, hot baking powder biscuits, brown bread, ice cream, cake and coffee.

R. R. Gould acting as toastmaster called on Eminent Commander H. O. Forsberg, who expressed a wish that this was only the beginning of many such gatherings for this winter. Mr. Gould then called upon Generalissimo Lea Shipp, Captain General Joe Davidson, Senior Warden Ralph Falconer, Junior Warden G. S. Swanson, who responded each taking a topic of interest. Rev. R. J. Long was then called upon, and gave a most complimentary talk on the local Roosevelt Chapter DeMolay.

The Knights then held the regular business meeting, opening in full form, after which bridge was played. Miss Davis of Little Falls winning the ladies honor, and Dr. Melvin Carlson winning the gentlemen honor. Refreshments were served at midnight.

The out-of-town guests were Dr. Hall, Miss Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Wendt of Little Falls, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hall and Geo. Mahood of Pine River.

MATAGALPA AREA

REPORTED FOLLOWERS OF GEN. SANDINO ARE CONCERNING THERE

LATTER SAID TO HAVE FORCE OF 500 MOUNTED SOLDIERS IN RAIDING GROUPS

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 9. (UP)—United States marines were rushed today to the Matagalpa district, where it was reported followers of General Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, were concentrating. It was reported here that William De Savigny, American vice-consul at Matagalpa, had asked additional aid while Harold Patterson, British charge-de-affaires here, has told United States Minister Eberhardt that he expected full protection of British lives and property, as had been promised.

Reports here were to the effect that General Sandino was leading his own troops in the Matagalpa district. He was said to have a force of about 500 mounted soldiers and was dividing them into raiding groups of between 50 and 100 soldiers in each group.

TOUCHY SUBJECT
OF INTERVENTION
AT PAN-AMERICAN

PROVES ONE OF MOST DELICATE QUESTIONS BEFORE CONFERENCE

TODAY STILL UNSOLVED BY COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO DRAFT RESOLUTION

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Feb. 5. — The formula covering the rights of states, including the touchy subject of intervention, has proved one of the most delicate of questions before the sixth Pan-American conference and today still was unsolved by the sub-committee appointed to draft it.

For once, during the conference, silence surrounded the efforts of delegates. None of the members of the rights of states sub-committee would discuss their efforts or what progress had been made.

The sub-committee is composed of Charles Evans Hughes, Honorary Prefect of Argentina, Victor Maurtua of Peru, Florody of Mexico, Guerrero of El Salvador, Castro Beeche of Costa Rica and Lira of Chile. They met twice yesterday without reaching a complete formula and were scheduled to meet again Thursday.

After the second meeting yesterday the members told newspapermen that there would be no interviews granted until the work of drafting the formula—based greatly around the Mauritua report—had been completed.

Incidentally, and apropos of absolutely nothing whatsoever, we've often wondered why so much of the public is allowed at large, but no answer has ever been forthcoming.

It's none of our business, of course, but a merchant friend of ours tells us he seldom has a call for cotton stockings any more.

Echoes from one of our local school rooms: Blizzard—the inside of a hen; Mountain Range—a big cook stove.

We hear that the next reduction on income taxes will effect incomes at last! We've felt for a long time that the government ought to do something for the coal men.

"What's the chances for a drink?" "I'll give you a drink but you take your own chances."

We've decided to improve the appearance of our home grounds and have written the following letter to Jim Alderman: Dear Jim:

Having a plot of ground not good for anything else, we wish to make an attractive and profitable garden. Please send us one dozen strawberry seeds, one bee with hive complete, one dozen plum seeds, ten square yards of spring, one concrete path (wind-ing) and six wall flowers with six pieces of wall. Send also enough baskets for the strawberry and plum crops, and side and back combs for the honey. The grass must be green and the seeds a flavor unpopular with chickens.

Speaking of chickens reminds us that the new Fords have chicken wire netting over the top of all closed models. We couldn't help but wonder if Henry would send out questionnaires to prospective male customers between the ages of 16 and 60. We're going to ask Walt Tyrholm about that.

Several cases of spring fever reported in our community.

From the Daily Dispatch

February 9, 1903

An important conference has been held in St. Paul between State Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner C. P. Staples, State Treasurer Block, Public Examiner Johnson, and State Auditor Iverson. The subject discussed was the best manner of procedure in the matter of referring to and dealing with the delinquent railroad taxes discovered by Public Examiner Johnson during the latter part of the year 1902.

During the period from June 1, 1892 to January 1, 1903, Public Examiner Johnson discovered $275,000 of delinquent taxes stretching over several years. He expects to find much more before his researches are over.

It would seem that the meeting of the Third Ward voters the other night to decide on the matter of dividing the ward will serve only to voice the sentiment of the ward on the matter; that the only manner in which action can be taken lies with the charter commission. This commission which meets every Wednesday evening can take the matter up, and will in all probability take under consideration the action of the Third warders at the meeting held on Friday evening.

An endeavor is to be made to raise the bounty on horse thieves to $200 in Minnesota.

A Dispatch editorial states: "Will the taxpayers vote to issue $40,000 in bonds for a remodeled school building that will be unsatisfactory at best, and most inconveniently located? Well, hardly."

DAN CUPID UNITES
187 COUPLES IN
1927 MARRIAGES

Dan Cupid was a busier love emissary in 1927 than in 1926, marriage license figures for this county, released today at the office of the clerk of the district court show.

During the past year there were 187 marriage licenses taken out at the office of the clerk while in 1926 there were 172 licenses issued. Against this there were 25 divorces in Crow Wing county in 1927 while 19 were recorded in 1926.

In spite of the fact that this is leap year, a fall off of one marriage license was noted in January, 1928, in comparison to the same month the previous year. Eleven marriages were recorded in January, 1927, while ten were reported in January, 1928.

APRONS FROM FLOUR BAGS

Utility is the first duty of an apron, unless you are talking about those little dainty affairs of voile or dainty that are sometimes worn for serving tea or when doing dainty housework in and out of the kitchen, something sturdier is needed, something that can stand being washed or even boiled every week. Half a dozen extremely practical aprons may be made out of as many empty flour bags which almost any baker has on hand and is glad to sell for a few cents. Unripped, the goods measures about 26x42 inches, large enough to take your favorite apron pattern unless you require them to be sleeved or extremely voluminous. To remove the stamping, cover the inked spots with lard or soak them in kerosene overnight. Then wash the bag out in lukewarm water. The edges may be hemmed, button-holed or bound with bias tape. Patch pockets are bound with the same color tape. String ties are no longer used much on aprons as they take too much material and ironing. Slip-over straps or a straight band across the back and snap fasteners answer the purpose as well.

When making these aprons for Christmas gifts, bridal showers or for bazaar, they can be quickly and effectively decorated with conventional designs worked in outline, running or cross-stitch or with the popular applique motifs.

Another type of apron that can, with a little more labor, be made from flour bags, is the smock. These are particularly useful for general wear about the house or garden in the mornings as they take the place of a dress. They give a delightfully youthful appearance. Three bags are needed to make a smock. The collar, cuffs and patch pockets can be of green, henna or delft blue linen or cotton.

O. E. S. LADIES SERVE

Leading Lodge Officers on Speaking Platform; Bridge Follows Business Meet

On Tuesday evening, the Sir Knights of the Ascalon Commandery, No. 16, entertained their ladies and visitors from surrounding towns at the Masonic lodge rooms. A banquet was enjoyed at 6:30 o'clock served by the ladies of Alpha Chapter, O. E. S., which was a credit to that organization. The tables were decorated with baskets of red tulips, and the following menu served: roast beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, fruit salad, celery, cheery jam, beet relish, spiced apples, hot baking powder biscuits, brown bread ice cream, cake and coffee.

R. R. Gould acting as toastmaster called on Eminent Commander H. O. Forsberg, who expressed a wish that this was only the beginning of many such gatherings for this winter. Mr. Gould then called upon Generalissimo Lea Shipp, Captain General Joe Davidson, Senior Warden Ralph Falconer, Junior Warden G. S. Swanson, who responded each taking a topic of interest. Rev. R. J. Long was then called upon, and gave a most complimentary talk on the local Roosevelt Chapter DeMolay.

The Knights then held the regular business meeting, opening in full form, after which bridge was played. Miss Davis of Little Falls winning the ladies honor, and Dr. Melvin Carlson winning the gentlemen honor. Refreshments were served at midnight.

The out-of-town guests were Dr. Hall, Miss Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Wendt of Little Falls, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hall and Geo. Mahood of Pine River.

U. S. MARINES
RUSHED TO THE
MATAGALPA AREA

REPORTED FOLLOWERS OF GEN. SANDINO ARE CONCENTRATING THERE

LATTER SAID TO HAVE FORCE OF 500 MOUNTED SOLDIERS IN RAIDING GROUPS

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 9.—(UP)—United States marines were rushed today to the Matagalpa district, where it was reported followers of General Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, were concentrating.

It was reported here that William De Savigny, American vice-consul at Matagalpa, had asked additional aid while Harold Patterson, British charge-de-affaires here, has told United States Minister Eberhardt that he expected full protection of British lives and property, as had been promised.

Reports here were to the effect that General Sandino was leading his own troops in the Matagalpa district. He was said to have a force of about 500 mounted soldiers and was dividing them into raiding groups of between 50 and 100 soldiers in each group.

TOUCHY SUBJECT
OF INTERVENTION
AT PAN-AMERICAN

PROVES ONE OF MOST DELICATE QUESTIONS BEFORE CONFERENCE

TODAY STILL UNSOLVED BY COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO DRAFT RESOLUTION

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Feb. 3.—The formula covering the rights of states, including the touchy subject of intervention, has proved one of the most delicate of questions before the sixth Pan-American conference and today still was unsolved by the sub-committee appointed to draft it.

For once, during the conference, silence surrounded the efforts of delegates. None of the members of the rights of states sub-committee would discuss their efforts or what progress had been made.

The sub-committee is composed of Charles Evans Hughes, Honorio Pueyfredon of Argentina, Victor Maurtua of Peru, Floridury of Mexico, Guerrero of El Salvador, Castro Beeche of Costa Rica and Lira of Chile. They met twice yesterday without reaching a complete formula and were scheduled to meet again Thursday.

After the second meeting yesterday the members told newspapermen that there would be no interviews granted until the work of drafting the formula—based greatly around the Maurtua report—had been completed.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1928

No. 7

Incidentally, and apropos of absolutely nothing whatsoever, we've often wondered why so much of the public is allowed at large, but no answer has ever been forthcoming.

It's none of our business, of course, but a merchant friend of ours tells us he seldom has a call for cotton stockings any more.

Echoes from one of our local school rooms: Blizzard—the inside of a hen; Mountain Range—a big cook stove.

We hear that the next reduction on income taxes will effect incomes at last! We've felt for a long time that the government ought to do something for the coal men.

"What's the chances for a drink?" "I'll give you a drink but you take your own chances."

We've decided to improve the appearance of our home grounds and have written the following letter to Jim Alderman: Dear Jim:

Having a plot of ground not good for anything else, we wish to make an attractive and profitable garden. Please send us one dozen strawberry seeds, one bee with hive complete, one dozen plum seeds, ten square yards of grass, one concrete path (winding) and six wall flowers with six pieces of wall. Send also enough baskets for the strawberry and plum crops, and side and back combs for the honey. The grass must be green and the seeds a flavor unpoplar with chickens.

Speaking of chickens reminds us that the new Fords have chicken wire netting over the top of all closed models. We couldn't help but wonder if Henry would send out questionnaires to prospective male customers between the ages of 16 and 60. We're going to ask Walt Tyrholm about that.

Several cases of spring fever reported in our community.

FIGHT WAGED TO INVESTIGATE PUBLIC UTILITIES

LONG EFFORTS OF SENATOR
WALSH OF MONTANA NEAR-
ING CLIMAX

MATTER WAS FIRST REFERRED TO INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE

By KENNETH CRAWFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9. — The long fight Senator Walsh of Montana has waged for an investigation of the public utilities industry neared its climax today in the senate.

First referred to the interstate commerce committee where appropriation of $30,000 to carry on the investigation was authorized, the resolution will come before the senate for final action in a few days.

Amendments attached by the interstate commerce committee will not hamper the thorough investigation he proposes to make, the senator believes. Although he asked an appropriation of $50,000 from the audit and control committee, he said $30,000 would probably suffice.

"If the senate authorizes the investigation," Walsh said, "and I have every reason to believe it will, I shall go into every important phase of the industry's activity. Rates charged for energy, and the question of soundness of securities will be the principal considerations."

"The amendments limiting the scope of the investigation to interstate operations will have no material effect upon it. I never contemplated an investigation of small companies whose operations are limited to one state and whose stocks are not sold broadcast."

"The investigating committee will also inquire into the enormous lobby which has fought my resolution."

GREAT BRITAIN CONTRACTS FOR 4 MORE SUBMARINES

MAKES TOTAL OF 17 TO BE LAID DOWN FOR EMPIRE BY
1930

AWARD CAME SHORTLY AFTER SECRETARY KELLOGG PLEAD-
ED TO ABOLISH SUB

London, Feb. 9. — (UP) — Great Britain placed contracts today for four more of a total of seventeen submarines to be laid down by 1930.

Award of the contracts came only a few days after a suggestion by Frank B. Kellogg, United States secretary of state, that the submarine be abolished.

Great Britain was known to be favorable to Kellogg's proposal, but France and other continental nations ridiculed it, and Britain's order might be interpreted as an answer to them.

The submarines are of the "O" type, of which one—Oberon — already has been completed. The Oberon has a standard displacement of 1,346 tons, and is understood to carry one 4-inch gun.

Two such submarines are being built for the Australian navy.

The seventeen submarines to be completed by 1930 are in addition. Besides the contracts awarded today six of them are under construction, leaving seven yet to be ordered.

Love Theme Appeals in "Cat and Canary" Great Mystery Film at Lyceum

In "The Cat and the Canary," now playing at the Lyceum theatre a love theme of absorbing interest, interwoven with the thread of drama on a background of intrigue, mystery and serio-comedy, has been transferred to the celluloid by the genius of Paul Leni.

An all-star cast supports Laura LaPlante, the petite blonde who has flashed across the cinematic heavens as a star of the first magnitude.

Throughout the action of the photo-drama runs the age-old story of love, the lure of money, thwarted desires and human passions. Down to the very last foot of film you will be sitting on edge awaiting the startling denouement.

Patrons who have seen "The Cat and Canary," are requested not to reveal the mystery to others attending the theatre.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LAURA LA PLANTE in "THE CAT AND THE CANARY" WITH ALL STAR CAST - A UNIVERSAL JEWEL PRODUCTION

Love Theme Appeals in "Cat and Canary" Great Mystery Film at Lyceum

In "The Cat and the Canary," now playing at the Lyceum theatre a love theme of absorbing interest, interwoven with the thread of drama on a background of intrigue, mystery and serio-comedy, has been transferred to the celluloid by the genius of Paul Leni.

An all-star cast supports Laura LaPlante, the petite blonde who has flashed across the cinematic heavens as a star of the first magnitude. Throughout the action of the photo-drama runs the age-old story of love, the lure of money, thwarted desires and human passions. Down to the very last foot of film you will be sitting on edge awaiting the startling denouement.

Patrons who have seen "The Cat and Canary," are requested not to reveal the mystery to others attending the theatre.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WIDESPREAD INFLUENCE OF AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

W. M. JARDINE, Secretary of Agriculture, in his annual report emphasizes the fact, that in urging better provision for agricultural research, its benefits go to the entire public and not merely to the farmers.

There is a mistaken impression, continues Mr. Jardine, that the Department of Agriculture is operated for the sole benefit of the agricultural industry. As a matter of fact, a large part of the work done by the department and a large part of the funds expended by it are devoted to the promotion of the health, prosperity, and well-being of the general public.

Even expenditures that seem to be primarily for the benefit of the farmer usually result in benefits also to the whole population. This is obviously true of research activities which enable farmers to produce better crops and livestock, to reduce their production costs, and to market their products in a more orderly and efficient manner. Savings effected by such activities benefit consumers as well as producers. It is true of all the department's work, and particularly of its research work, that the ultimate beneficiary is the entire community.

It will be convenient at this point, continues the secretary, to notice a few examples of the way in which the department's work promotes the general welfare as well as that of agriculture. The largest item of money expended by the department is for the improvement of roads.

Over $92,000,000, or 60 per cent of the total expenditure of about $153,000,000 which was charged to the Department of Agriculture during the fiscal year 1927, was spent for this purpose. Improved roads benefit alike the city dweller and the farmer, and, since the city population is greater than the population of the farms, the improved roads probably contribute to the cities a sum total of benefits that exceeds the benefits derived by the farmers.

No factor is as important as highway improvement in reducing the cost of operating motor vehicles, and certainly nothing contributes more to the utility and pleasure derived from the automobile. Besides contributing nearly $83,000,000 for the fiscal year 1927 to the several states as federal aid in road construction, the department expended directly about $9,000,000 on forest roads and trails. These forest roads and trails facilitate fire protection in the national forests, improve communication between towns located within and adjacent to the forests, and form essential links in interstate and transcontinental roads on which traffic would be seriously impeded were it not for the contribution and work of the federal government.

Engineering studies made by the department are reducing road maintenance costs for the states, counties, and municipalities, as well as for the federal government, and therefore contribute materially to lightened tax burdens.

Another example of work done by the department for the benefit of the general public is the federal meat-inspection service. Two thousand inspectors, at an annual cost of more than $5,000,000, stand guard at stockyards and meat-packing establishments to see that livestock and meat-food products entering into interstate commerce are wholesome and fit for the table.

In like manner, the enforcement of the food and drugs act, better known as the pure food law, protects the public against unwholesome or adulterated foods and drugs. This work calls for an expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 annually.

Under other appropriations the department examines tea entering the country, and passes, also, on the quality and effectiveness of disinfectants and insecticides.

Under a new law passed at the last session of congress, the caustic poison act, the department will be required to see that householders are protected by proper labels and warnings from the misuse of caustic poisons.

About $6,000,000 a year is now being expended by the department in cooperation with the states in a campaign to eradicate bovine tuberculosis. This campaign has materially reduced tuberculosis in cattle, resulting in more economical production and safer meat and milk.

Through its Bureau of Home Economics, the department has been spending something like $100,000 a year in investigating food and nutrition, household appliances, textiles and clothing, and household finances.

The department's weather forecasts often effect important commercial savings. Daily forecasts and special frost warnings for agriculture save large sums annually to fruit growers.

In a report of 90 pages, the above is only a small part of the good things done for the farmers and the public in general by this valuable Department of Agriculture.

MOVING THE GATEWAY

BRAINERD from times past, so far in the distant past that the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, has laid claim and justly so to being the gateway to the 10,000 lakes.

And now comes the St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press, in a wonderful 44 page edition devoted to elaborating the benefits and conveniences of a local hospital, and in an article on page 4 of section 2 enunciates the claim that St. Cloud is the gateway to the 10,000 lakes.

Not content with appropriating our gate, post and hinges, the paper also stretches geography and claims St. Cloud to be located near the geographical center of the North Star state. As a matter of fact, Brainerd is within a few miles of the exact geographical center of the state and St. Cloud is over 60 miles south-east of the aforesaid center.

THE WORLD'S GREAT EVENTS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

(© by Dodd, Mead & Company.)

The Conquest of England

LITTLE has been said of England in this series. Not that its history up to this point had not been of great interest, but it had had until the Eleventh century comparatively little influence on the general history of the world.

In the early days the country had been populated by heathen, savage tribes forever at war with each other. They had combined against the Romans who invaded the country under Julius Caesar, and for a time were successful in repelling the better-disciplined foe. The Romans won difficult foothold in Great Britain, but the natives at last drove them out and won independence. Then Teuton warriors from the borders of Germany and Scandinavia overran England. These new invaders were known as "Saxons," though in time they called themselves "English." They completely won the country, which they proceeded to appropriate and then to fight over among themselves. Down came the Danes, or Northmen, conquered the Saxons and gained control of England. But the Saxons within a quarter century put down the Danes, and made themselves once more masters of the sorely straitened island. After which, in spite of internal strife and petty wars, they remained in control until the middle of the Eleventh century.

Then came a political snarl whose rights and wrongs have never been clearly settled. The muddle, briefly, was as follows:

Edward, king of England, had no sons. He was related to the dukes of Normandy (descendants of the Norse pirate, Rollo), and promised to make Duke William of Normandy his heir. As the English throne was not a private possession to be bestowed at will, Edward had not the slightest right to make this promise. He was a man whose alleged piety served as a cloak for political intrigues and won for him the nickname of Edward the Confessor. He was Norman in sympathies, and though he knew his Saxon subjects hated the Normans, he still planned to overthrow the brave Saxon dynasty in the latter's favor.

The "political boss" of England at the time was one Earl Godwin. He was the people's idol, represented the pro-Saxon, anti-Norman element and was strong enough to defy even the king. Godwin's son, Harold the Fair-Haired, was exiled from England and fled to Normandy, where Duke William, for reasons of his own, received him cordially. In return for this kindness (the Norman duke later declared) Harold promised to support William's claims as Edward's successor and did him homage as his rightful master. Harold returned from exile, and on Godwin's death inherited the old earl's popularity and political power.

So when, in 1066, King Edward died without an heir, the people unanimously chose Harold as king of England. William at the same time sent envoys to remind him of his promise. Harold packed the envoys off again with no satisfactory reply and assumed the sovereignty of the country.

But the strain of Scandinavian pirate blood would not allow William to submit tamely to this downfall of his hopes. He stirred up Hadrada, king of Norway, against Harold, and himself fitted out an expedition against England. The Norsemen under Hadrada swept down upon the British coast (the last of their many invasions) and William raised an army to follow their example.

On September 24, 1066, Harold met the Norwegian army and utterly routed it, driving the Scandinavians forever from British soil. Then he turned to meet William, who, with a mighty Norman host, had crossed the channel. The two armies—Saxon and Norman—met at Hastings, October 14, 1066. Harold's army, already weakened by their battle with the Norsemen, fought heroically, and ever in the van was their gigantic, yellow-haired king. A Norman arrow wounded Harold. Before he could recover himself four Norman knights hurled themselves upon him and killed him. Seeing their leader fall, the Saxons fled. Though for five years longer they fought valiantly to repel the Normans, they were little by little subdued, until by 1071 England was a mere Norman possession.

Much pathetic nonsense has been written of the brutal conquest of England by Norman robbers. As a matter of fact, it was the best possible thing for the country. The Saxons had been a heavy, boorish, stupid, nonprogressive race. The Normans were up to date, alert, eager for improvement and advancement of all sorts. The rough strength and ruder virtues of the Saxons blended at length with the skill, culture and chivalry of the Normans; the combination forming one of the greatest, most powerful nations the world has ever known. Within a few generations Saxon and Norman were merged. To the result of this "merger" England owes her later prowess. But the conquest's chief result was the wedding of the Saxon and ancient French dialects into the English language.

While the conquest itself was without legal or moral justification, yet its prime mover's genius made it the ultimate benefit to humanity at large that it proved to be.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

The Norsemen under Hadrada swept down upon the British coast (the last of their many invasions) and William raised an army to follow their example.

On September 24, 1066, Harold met the Norwegian army and utterly routed it, driving the Scandinavians forever from British soil. Then he turned to meet William, who, with a mighty Norman host, had crossed the channel. The two armies—Saxon and Norman—met at Hastings, October 14, 1066. Harold's army, already weakened by their battle with the Norsemen, fought heroically, and ever in the van was their gigantic, yellow-haired king. A Norman arrow wounded Harold. Before he could recover himself four Norman knights hurled themselves upon him and killed him. Seeing their leader fall, the Saxons fled. Though for five years longer they fought valiantly to repel the Normans, they were little by little subdued, until by 1071 England was a mere Norman possession.

Much pathetic nonsense has been written of the brutal conquest of England by Norman robbers. As a matter of fact, it was the best possible thing for the country. The Saxons had been a heavy, boorish, stupid, nonprogressive race. The Normans were up to date, alert, eager for improvement and advancement of all sorts. The rough strength and ruder virtues of the Saxons blended at length with the skill, culture and chivalry of the Normans; the combination forming one of the greatest, most powerful nations the world has ever known. Within a few generations Saxon and Norman were merged. To the result of this "merger" England owes her later prowess. But the conquest's chief result was the wedding of the Saxon and ancient French dialects into the English language.

While the conquest itself was without legal or moral justification, yet its prime mover's genius made it the ultimate benefit to humanity at large that it proved to be.

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. F. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for movement but, best of all, it never 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

The Brainerd American Legion team may lose games away from home but opposing teams know by this time that the five offers a mighty strong threat on their own floor. Hot on the trail of their decisive victory over the Frazee boys, the Legion team last night at the high school gym outplayed and outscored the visiting Wright cagers to win easily by the count of 58 to 12.

Marshall started the scoring for the locals when he dropped in a long field goal. The first quarter ended 12 to 4 with the half closing 30 to 8.

A second half rally by the Wright team was stopped after the visitors sunk two baskets, while the Brainerd team continued to set a killing pace by scoring 28 points.

Systematic attack and a powerful defensive were strong factors in bringing about victory for the locals. Whitlock started with nine field goals, Marshall with five field goals and Fitzharris with seven. The three constituted the big guns in the firing squad on the Wright basket. Lowe and Heikinen on guard scored two field baskets apiece beside playing stellar games.

Lequier was high point man for the Wright team with five field baskets to his credit.

TAYLOR TO MEET JOEY SANGOR IN FIGHT TONIGHT

BOUT HAS IMPORTANT BEARING ON FEATHERWEIGHT CHAM-PIONSHIP BATTLE

TAYLOR'S BANTAMWEIGHT
TITLE, HOWEVER, NOT AT STAKE IN MATCH

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—Bud Taylor, world's bantamweight champion, and Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight, meet here tonight in a bout which may have an important bearing on the next featherweight championship battle.

Taylor's bantamweight title is not at stake.

It will be the fourth meeting of the two men. Sangor has beaten Taylor twice, and Taylor has obtained one decision.

The bout is important in that it will narrow down the list of western contenders for the featherweight title. Tony Canzoneri and Benny Bass meet in New York tomorrow night, and the winner is almost certain to be recognized as featherweight champion by both the National Boxing association and the New York commission.

Promoter Jim Mullen announced he would match the winner of the Taylor-Sangor fight with Eddie Shea, Chicagoan, who is ranked among the best of the feathers.

Mullen said he then would attempt to match the winner of the Shea bout with either Canzoneri or Bass, depending on who wins tomorrow night.

He said he would offer a diamond belt, emblematic of the world's featherweight championship, in addition to considerable cash for the bout.

Sangor was the favorite, 6-5, in tonight's match. However Taylor had plenty of backers.

HAHN WINS 1,000 YARDS RUN LAST NIGHT

RUNS EASILY AND THREADS HIS WAY THROUGH A LARGE
HANDICAP FIELD

MISS CATHERINE DONOVAN ALSO SMASHED OWN RECORD IN THE HALF MILE

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 8.—Some idea of the margin of difference between the athletic performances of men and women is furnished today by the comparative times registered in the annual games of the Newark Athletic Club, in which Lloyd Hahn, the mighty Nebraskan, added to his amazing winning streak and Miss Catherine Donovan smashed her own world's record in the half mile run.

In last night's games, Hahn, running easily and threading his way through a handicap field, pattered past the half mile mark well inside two minutes, and went on to win the 1,000 yards run in 2:15 1-5.

The indoor record for the half mile run for men is 1:54 3-5; for women it is 2:38, established in the Newark meet by Miss Donovan, whose best previous time was 2:38 2-5.

It seems, therefore that a man can spot a woman a start of 40 seconds and beat her at half a mile.

It will be argued, of course, that women have only just begun to run such distances, that is, under A. A. U. auspices, and that their time will improve more rapidly than those of the men. Probably this is true, since the world's indoor record for the 880 yards run has stood on the record books for 24 years. It was made by E. B. Parson at Buffalo on March 19, 1904.

Among the girls who followed Miss Donovan to the tape in her record breaking run was Dorothy Wallace of Staten Island, a 19-year-old mother. Mrs. Wallace, whose husband trains her, is ambitious to make the American Olympic team which will go to Amsterdam in July. For the first time, there are track and field events for women on the Olympic program.

One of these events will be the 880 yard run, an event in which the A. A. U. has not encouraged competition among women, it being generally believed that they were better off if they confined themselves to dashes and hurdles. Undoubtedly, Miss Donovan, Miss Wallace and Miss Eleanor Schoonover, who finished second last night, will do better than 2:38 before it comes time to go to Holland. There is even less doubt that they will have to if they want to win places.

Germany, among other competing nations, has been paying particular attention to developing women runners, and has some girls hitting around 2:30 who will make trouble for ours at Amsterdam.

Lucille Godbold of Winthrop College is credited with the outdoor record of 2:35 4-5 for the half mile. One thousand meters is the longest distance yet attempted officially by women, and Miss Godbold holds the record for that as well. 3:28 3-5, which compares disadvantageously with Sven Lundgren's time of 2:28 3-5 made in Sweden five years ago, or Lloyd Hahn's American record of 2:26 2-5 established here last March.

Our women are not going to have an easy time in the Olympic sprints either. Some little Canadian girls burned up the boards of Madison Square Garden the other night, running away with all the prizes. Rosa Grosse, a chubby Canadian miss, is credited with better than 11 seconds in the 100 yard dash, whereas Helen Filkey's best time is 11 2-5.

BRAINERD HIGH TO TEST TOURNAMENT PLAYS ON TECH-HIGH

GRANITE CITY CAGERS PLAY
HERE IN LAST HOME GAME
OF SEASON SATURDAY

TEN LOCALS TO SEE ACTION;
RANGY VISITORS TO PRO-VIDE REAL THREAT

St. Cloud Tech-High recently checked to a standstill by Warren Kasch's cagers in their invasion of the Granite City will make a strong attempt Saturday night to even matters up when they make their appearance on the high school floor here against the B. H. S. quint.

The game will be the last home game of the season and will give the team an opportunity of testing attack formations with a view in mind of pointing to the championship at the district tournament at Aitkin the early part of March.

Brainerd's entry to the St. Cloud territory was marked by success, a 29-8 victory being the result over the St. Cloud Tech-High which St. Cloud fans are still pondering over and lauding the cage stuff shown by the upstate team.

A very even game is predicted here however as the St. Cloud boys have shown marked ability as basket checkers and a formidable offense. The team composed of rangy fellows will provide sufficient competition to test the strength of the Brainerd team as it enters on the last lap of the conference and only a few weeks from the tournament.

Coch Kasch stated today that he was not so much interested in a win as to the working of combinations for the district tournament. He will use ten men substituting to give his tournament protective players an opportunity to display their wares. Wellver, Wise, Swanson, Guin, Barnes, Fuller, LaCourse, Gabiou, and Purdy will be used in play.

JOE RAY AGAIN AMATEUR IN GOOD STANDING

Chicago, Feb. 9. — (U.P.) — Jole Ray, once America's leading distance runner, who turned professional and then couldn't find anybody to compete against, was an amateur in good standing again today.

The Chicago A. A. U. reinstated Ray at a meeting last night, and to celebrate, the runner planned to enter the Illinois Athletic Club meeting tomorrow night. He has been conditioning himself for several weeks.

He will enter the two-mile race, he said, but will not compete against Dr. Otto Peltzer and Ray Dodge in the 1,000 meter run.

UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

A correspondent who has for some time been honoring this column with extraneous advice now comes to the fore with some suggestions regarding chess and kindred sports. Joe Carupa is well known to our readers and needs no introduction. Here is his latest letter:

"Dear Sir:
"I see you published the letter I sent you giving you the dope on the boxing situation. I think you have some sense after all. I will now write you about an idea that I have that somebody ought to jump on before somebody else does.

"I see by the papers that a guy that won the world's chess title is holding out for a bigger guarantee. Well, you can't blame him for that. But the idea I have is why don't they whoopee this situation so it will mean something instead of just being a pain in the neck.

"When the last chess series was fought some people said it was in the bag. I am for that. That is what gave me my idea. I don't believe it was, or it would of been interesting.

"Now that is what I am getting at. If somebody would work up a little noise over the chess situation and say there wasn't any logical contender and all that hokey like you do about boxing or whatever there's a champion of, they could stage a world series at Madison Square Garden. You will say it takes fifteen or twenty minutes to make a move and everybody would walk out on them. Well, try and make Tex Rickard sore by walking out after you've been in. But they wouldn't. They would stay in and make remarks like take your whiskers out of that soup, et cetera, and chess players are very temperamental like tennis players.

"But my idea is to combine some similar sport like wrestling that also takes about fifteen minutes to make a move, and put it in between moves. They could start off snappy with the first move in the chess and then start the first wrestling bout. At the end of ten minutes they could ring a bell to show people there was only five minutes left for Flat Face Ike to throw his opponent and also that Battling Bogobubov only had five minutes to start the second chess move. Then the excitement would get big and finally after the four-minute bell and three-minute bell, et cetera, whoever's turn it was to win would get a fall and vice versa on the chess.

"If you object to this I would say help yourself about the game you have with the chess. It might be ice hockey. That's my idea of another good bag game. I saw a game once and nobody can tell me that anybody could put that little MUCK in the cage if I was there trying to stop it. Also I see a light go up by the cage about the same time every goal is made. You will say that don't mean anything, but don't try and tell me.

"What I mean to say is there are enough saps to get a crowd to anything if you only arrange it properly and inject the element of sport namely that there will be a lot of argument and nobody wins too often. By combining chess and some other game you would: 1.—Introduce a new sport. 2.—Get the chess public to know the other game. 3.—Get the other game public to know the chess. 4.—Thereby win both ways, which is the idea in sport.

"Hoping you will publish this for it is the goods.
"JOE CARUPA."

The sum-total of pipe-joy

IF YOU could take an adding-machine and set down all the qualities you demand in a pipe-tobacco, such as fragrance, coolness, mildness, satisfaction, when you pulled the lever, the total would read: "Prince Albert." You can prove it with a pipe and a tin of P. A.

Throw back the hinged lid and revel in that aroma of the world's most popular pipe-tobacco. Put a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. Draw that cool, refreshing smoke deep down and exhale slowly. That's

Prince Albert! That's living! You'll go to it from breakfast to bedtime.

Prince Albert leads all other brands in sales, because it leads in satisfaction. The word "satisfaction" has worn a little thin from much use, but a pipe and P. A. give it an entirely new meaning. You'll say so on your very first pipe-load, and you'll be a Prince Alberteer after that!

"But my idea is to combine some similar sport like wrestling that also takes about fifteen minutes to make a move, and put it in between moves. They could start off snappy with the first move in the chess and then start the first wrestling bout. At the end of ten minutes they could ring a bell to show people there was only five minutes left for Flat Face like to throw his opponent and also that Battling Bogoljubov only had five minutes to start the second chess move. Then the excitement would get big and finally after the four-minute bell and three-minute bell, et cetera, whoever's turn it was to win would get a fall and vice versa on the chess.

"If you object to this I would say help yourself about the game you have with the chess. It might be ice hockey. That's my idea of another good bag game. I saw a game once and nobody can tell me that anybody could put that little MUCK in the cage if I was there trying to stop it. Also I see a light go up by the cage about the same time every goal is made. You will say that don't mean anything, but don't try and tell me.

"What I mean to say is there are enough saps to get a crowd to anything if you only arrange it properly and inject the element of sport namely that there will be a lot of argument and nobody wins too often. By combining chess and some other game you would: 1.—Introduce a new sport. 2.—Get the chess public to know the other game. 3.—Get the other game public to know the chess. 4.—Thereby win both ways, which is the idea in sport.

Hoping you will publish this for it is the goods.

The sum-total of pipe-joy

IF YOU could take an adding-machine and set down all the qualities you demand in a pipe-tobacco, such as fragrance, coolness, mildness, satisfaction, when you pulled the lever, the total would read: "Prince Albert."

You can prove it with a pipe and a tin of P.A. Throw back the hinged lid and revel in that aroma of the world's most popular pipe-tobacco. Put a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. Draw that cool, refreshing smoke deep down and exhale slowly. That's

Prince Albert! That's living! You'll go to it from breakfast to bedtime.

Prince Albert leads all other brands in sales, because it leads in satisfaction. The word "satisfaction" has worn a little thin from much use, but a pipe and P.A. give it an entirely new meaning. You'll say so on your very first pipe-load, and you'll be a Prince Alberteer after that!

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Hernandez Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores occupy old Vasquez homestead overlooking San Francisco. The city's prosperity that followed the gold rush missed the Vasquez ranch. Vasquez's indolent ways are to blame. The ranch is coveted by Bucknell, political boss. His lawyer, Brandon, with Brandon's nephew, Terry, try to buy the ranch. Vasquez refuses to sell. Terry falls in love with Dolores. Bucknell plans to oust Vasquez by voiding old Spanish land grant. Terry goes to learn Vasquez and resumes love-making with Dolores. Vasquez ignores Terry's warning and tells him Dolores is to marry young Spaniard, Don Luis.

Vasquez smiled gently. Not for a moment did he imagine how deeply his announcement had affected Terry.

Nor did he notice that the youth smiled bitterly at the thought of what a fool he had been. Terry wanted the wine back on the table that he had barely sipped. He wanted a quantity of it to drown his disappointment and make him forget about the secret Vasquez had just revealed.

"I am sorry you have failed to heed my warning, Senor Vasquez. I seem to have misunderstood things." And without further parley Terry picked up his hat and left by the entrance opposite the patio so he would not encounter Dolores. He felt like a silly ass for having believed that Dolores could have cared as he did.

Vasquez looked after him in surprise, shrugged his shoulders and settled down to polish the great sword and meditate upon the uncertainties of the future.

Out in the patio Dolores was still curiously examining the pretty jewel case. "What is it?" she asked, looking up at Don Luis inquisitively.

"Open it and see!" he advised smilingly.

"No, not unless you tell me first. I don't like frogs, or bumble bees, or worms, and that is what you always surprise me with. What is it?" She held the box, ready to toss away, "or I will throw it into the pool."

"Not this time, sweet Senorita. I won't fool you any more. You have grown up into a real lady, and this is a present to celebrate the event."

Thus reassured, Dolores ventured to untie the small knot, but first she stealthily slipped Terry's card into the low cut neck of her gown. Still bit doubtful of Don Luis' assurance that nothing would jump at her, she held the box at arm's length and pressed the spring. He laughed delightedly. The lid flew open, revealing a long hatpin, the head made from a real rosebud that had been metalized.

"It is lovely," admired Dolores, "but if you had only thought, I have as much use for it as for the fat green catapillar you brought me last time." They had known each other so long that Dolores always treated him with the outspoken frankness that she would have given a brother.

"No, no," objected Don Luis. "All the ladies are wearing them in San Francisco—they are the style!" He was very observing when it came to feminine apparel also, more thoroughly informed on the subject than he cared to have Dolores ever know.

"They are the style for ladies who wear hats perhaps, but how am I to wear it in my parasol or mantilla?" Her eyes questioned him provokingly.

Don Luis adored women, but did not like to have them make fun of him or enjoy a joke at his expense. "Then we will let the flower grow in the rose garden." And taking the pin from Dolores he stuck it up in the earth. The small metal head nodded stiffly beside the natural blossoms that waved above it.

Finding Happiness

"And I shall water it every day! Thank you so much!" she said in mock appreciation, her eyes twinkling merrily.

"You love a joke, don't you? Well, there is something else in the bottom of the box that I am sure you will appreciate."

Daintily lifting up a corner of the cotton, Dolores saw what appeared to be a silver tube. Taking it out, she examined it with a puzzled frown between her beautiful eyes.

"What is one to do with a queer piece of silver like that?" she asked, holding it toward Don Luis.

"It shall be my pleasure to show you." Deftly he pulled off the small top and exposed a crimson tube of lip rouge. It was Dolores' first introduction to an artificial beauty aid and her bewilderment amused Don Luis.

"For your lips?" she inquired, her feminine instinct telling her what it was for without being informed.

"No, my sweet, not mine—yours!" And without warning Don Luis placed the palm of his hand on the soft cheek of Dolores, and drawing her toward him, applied the rouge to her lips.

Furiously indignant, Dolores pushed his hands away and stood facing him defiantly.

"It is an insult to infer that I would use such a thing, and you have no right to put it on my lips!"

With the back of her hand she tried to wipe the moist scar away, and it only inflamed her anger to have Don Luis throw back his head and laugh.

He was thinking of the night before and of how differently another woman had acted when he painted her lips. It was that incident that made him think of buying a similar toy for Dolores. Had she only been able to divine his thoughts her anger would have no bounds, for, although only a girl, Dolores had very decided ideas about what was right and proper, and she would not have approved of the worldliness in which Don Luis reveled.

Haughtily turning away, she left him and went into the living room, pausing just long enough before a mirror to make sure that none of the hateful stuff was left on her lips.

Dolores was surprised to find her Grandfather alone. "Where is Senor O'Shaughnessy?" she inquired eagerly, pronouncing the long name with difficulty.

"Gone back," replied Vasquez, shrugging his shoulders and pointing down the main road in front of the Rancho.

"Why?" Dolores felt like crying.

"Because I did not tremble at the rash warning which his youthful imagination probably exaggerated." Vasquez believed this to be the real reason for Terry's sudden departure. "It does not matter!"

But to Dolores it mattered very much. She could not understand why Terry left before seeing her. With drooping shoulders she curled up on a wide window seat and dolefully looked off toward Old San Francisco. Perhaps she would never see Terry again! Taking out his card, she read:

"TERRANCE O'SHAUGHNESSY,

The Bachelors' Club,

San Francisco."

Dolores found herself wondering just where the Bachelors' Club was and how Terry spent his time. Did he know a number of girls, and was he as nice to any of them as he had been to her?

Looking up from the card, Dolores sighed, then she gave a little start, frowned and, deliberately turning her back to the window, continued looking out the window.

Don Luis, smiling indolently, had just entered and blown her a kiss from his finger tips. When Dolores turned her back he laughed softly and quickly crossing to the window seat, lounged comfortably at the opposite end.

"Am I forgiven?" And leaning forward he grasped her high heeled slipper to attract her attention.

"Yes," conceded Dolores, "if you will let go of my slipper—please!"

"All right, sweet lady. Now I am going to play a love song for you." And closing his eyes he leaned back against the window and began playing a guitar that he had brought in from the patio.

Rising very quietly, Dolores stealthily slipped away and followed her Grandfather outside, where she had just seen him receive a message from a stranger.

His shoulders sagged. The spark of his old fighting spirit was gone. He was silent and dejected, with an open letter in his hand.

"Grandfather, dear, what is wrong?" she asked, gently putting her arms around his drooping shoulders.

The old man tried in vain to arouse from his depression. "The young Senor was right," he explained listlessly. "They have served notice that our grant is invalid and we must vacate immediately." His lips twitched and his eyes were moist.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Grace J. Austin.

In these days of simple and artistic patterns, widespread knowledge of the sewing art, and unusually beautiful materials, there are a great many dresses being created in homes.

Dame Fashion stood the other day and studied for quite a long while some soft beautiful material, and could seem to vision little school-girls, and all sorts of women wearing it. One reason why Dame Fashion studied it was because it has been practically off the market for a number of years; it is "challie." There were dark, dignified hair-line stripes for the elderly and matronly woman, and figures of all kinds, down to the pretty little blossom-clusters that look so sweet on little girls, especially when there is a sash or hair-ribbon of blue or rose somewhere to give color-emphasis.

"Hair-ribbons, Dame Fashion?" some one says. "Aren't they as extinct as the dodo?" Ah, but they are coming back. It would be unthinkable to let a whole generation of little girls grow up without the happiness of having a collection of pretty hair-ribbons. For some time now French mothers have begun again to send little daughters to school with gay-colored hair-ribbons, and the fashion has already crossed the water. One bow-maker in a famous New York retail shop has now, for over a month, averaged fifty hair-bows a day. Most of them go with a clasp that can cling tightly to a lock of bobbed hair. For long braids and long curls are still rare on school girls.

But coming back to these "challies." Where do you suppose they are made? With two guesses you might say Massachusetts or South Carolina. But it is not so. They, too, have traveled in great boxes in a ship's hold, and they, too, are the work of the clever Czechoslovakians. Wouldn't it make quite a tour of travel if we could journey to see the sheep, perhaps of Montenegro, which were sheared to make this cloth, and watch all the individuals who have worked upon it before it came to us?

Not but what America makes plenty of beautiful cloth, Dame Fashion lifted exquisite breadths of chiffon velvet, "I suppose this comes from France?" "Not at all," declared the director. "This is a true American product." And nothing could be lovelier if it had crossed a dozen oceans. Black velvet, like a popular novel, is a "best seller," and yet there are so many rich and wonderful shades in color. Can you not see "cockscorn red" in your mind; "bishop purple," "wood thrush brown" or "Cleopatra blue"?

Satin or satin-faced crepe combines so well with these velvets, and if there proves to be a spot that seems to lack something, that is the place either for a rhinestone ornament or a velvet bow; you may have your choice, for both are equally good. Dame Fashion saw a most modish gown of simple and perfect lines which looked not so hard for the home dressmaker. It was a black velvet dress, really one piece, though it simulated two, and from the flat belt of velvet at the low waistline there flitted out a pretty four-inch wide knife plaiting of satin, while at the side front of the skirt there was a straight panel of the same width plaiting, running up and down.

And New York is naming now such pretty dresses as "Sunday-Night Frocks." They are long-sleeved, and have such a gracious appearance of adaptation for a time of special pleasure, yet after all, an informal function.

MARYLAND BOYS SELL PINE CONES

Find Value in Material Heretofore Wasted.

Salisbury, Md.—Farmer boys of this and the other eastern shore counties of Maryland may develop, according to County Agent J. P. Brown, an exceedingly profitable enterprise by following the lead of Dorchester county boys, who have found something with a sales value which previously had been thrown away.

Acting under the direction of W. R. McKnight, agricultural agent of Dorchester county, pine cones are being collected by farm boys of that county and shipped to the state forestry nursery at College Park, where the seeds are extracted by University of Maryland experts.

The seed thus extracted from the cones will be used in growing loblolly pine seedlings for future sale and distribution to farmers of the Eastern Shore, who in turn will use the trees to beautify highways and their own farms. A good seed year, according to the state assistant forester, occurs once in about three years and, therefore, it is necessary for the department to lay in a three-year supply of seed.

A number of forest plantations started from seedlings from the state department are now growing well in various counties.

Seventeen members of the 4-H club, at Hooper's Island and Crapo, have just shipped 145 bushels of the cones to F. B. Trenk, assistant state forester, who is now settling with the shippers on a basis of 85 cents a bushel. It is said that from the standpoint of time expended the industry is the most profitable in which 4-H club members have been engaged during the year.

Most of the cones are delivered to neighboring schools, whence they are sent to College Park.

Dorchester is said to be the first county in which 4-H club members have been engaged in actual forestry work with their other duties along agricultural lines, and it is said there are few states in which work has been done.

Many Hogs in Virginia Dying From Cholera

Cape Charles, Va.—With approximately 2,000 hogs, valued at $50,000, already dead in Northampton county, and many more sick and dying daily from cholera, numerous farmers of this section will have almost empty pork houses for the winter and the main meat supply of the county is at a premium as far as the domestic porkers are concerned.

Hog cholera started in lower Northampton county in the late fall and spread throughout all sections, taking a toll of porkers at almost every farmhouse and in many instances wiping out the entire pen.

One farmer buried a hundred head recently within a two-week period and the shortage of hog meat in the county has reached an alarming state.

The two county veterinarians are busy injecting serum in the animals that have escaped the disease thus far with the hope of saving them, but more than half of the hogs of the county have died, it is said.

Leading farmers and the county farm agent are taking steps to have all hogs of Northampton vaccinated with the hope of eliminating cholera to protect next year's supply of porkers.

French Farmers Worry as Prices Decrease

Paris.—French farmers are worried over a fall of 30 to 35 per cent in all farm products since last May.

M. Pierre de Moncault, member of the chamber of deputies and regarded in France as speaking with greater authority on farm affairs than any other man in public life, declares the reduction has brought about a destructive crisis in French agriculture.

"It has resulted," he says, "in an intense movement from the farm to town. The number of farms for sale increase daily. The best farmers, those who have been more or less successful in the past, are the ones who are abandoning their fields to seek a happier fortune in the city."

While he blames failure of lower production costs to accompany the fall in agricultural produce as the immediate cause of the present crisis, M. de Moncault attaches considerable responsibility to the lack of suitable farm credits.

Industrial enterprises obtaining capital through issuance of stock are not required to pay until the undertaking is profitable, whereas the farmer who gets credit must pay when his crop is gathered, regardless of success or failure, he says.

Letter Taken From Bottom of Sea Is Delivered

Oakland, Calif.—A letter that had lain at the bottom of the Mediterranean sea for more than ten years is back in the possession of its writer, Ronald Wilkins, here. Mr. Wilkins wrote the letter to his mother, Mrs. A. Wilkins of London, while he was in a hospital recovering from a wound received at Salonika. The transport which carried the letter was torpedoed and sunk. A few months ago the ship was raised and the decipherable mail delivered. When Mrs. Wilkins received the letter she forwarded it to her son here.

Dame Fashion Smiles

Grace J. Austin.

Dame Fashion's mother read aloud the other evening in front of the fire place quite an exciting account of the wonderful gems that have been found in America. This told how once upon a time, before we all learned about "costume jewelry" there were only diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires, with pearls extra, which were called gems.

But Dame Fashion decided this week it was not fair to let the lampshades wear all the pretty make-believe jewels that are made for them, so when she saw that those clever Czechoslovakians had made lamp cord pendants, partly of big mock emeralds, and partly of those long slim glass beads which Civil-war-time women called "bugles," and that those across-the-sea folk announced these were "radium-filled," to shine in the dark, she adopted one at once. She knotted the cord into a bow, to pin at her collar, so to wear the pendant on the front of her dress.

Since radium costs about a million dollars and these glowing beads cost an exceedingly few cents, those clever Czechs have probably used phosphorus or something, but Dame Fashion has found her new style pendant with its mysterious glow arouses a good deal of interest. Once upon a time there was an old lady who heard so much about Jamestown, N. Y., on its beautiful lake, that she said if she never got to heaven she hoped she would get as far as Jamestown. This is much the way Dame Fashion feels about Czechoslovakia. Last summer a friend of hers from Washington, D. C., took an extended tour in Europe. On her return Dame Fortune asked her which city she preferred, fully expecting to hear Paris or Florence named.

"Prague," she replied, with great promptness. And by the way, she made it rhyme with the first syllable of "gargle"—not an elegant comparison, perhaps, but the only one that comes to mind with just that mixture of broad "a" and hard "g." Dame Fortune had always made it sound like "praying," but now she tries to say it like the Czechoslovakians.

During all the winter days, tens of thousands of us will buy costume jewels and beads from Czechoslovakia, for they certainly do not confine their energies to lampshade cords. Dame Fashion stood last week in a highly exclusive shop and let wonderful globes of color from that country slide through her fingers. They must have been artists for generations. The gift shops are full of graceful figures of their making. Perhaps you have rich metallic ornaments on your favorite gowns, or your best hat gleams with metal. More than likely they were dark-eyed Czechoslovakians who created them.

But Dame Fortune is still wondering what is inside her pendant, to make it glow.

Betsy Tucker Apron Is Favorite With Women

A "Betsy Tucker" is everything an apron should be, says the Woman's Home Companion. It's comfortable, it has two roomy pockets, it can be made of crisp washable material, it's easy to adjust and it has a touch of sprightly color. The making of the apron requires only a short session at the sewing machine. A first-quality gingham showing a white surface checked with a fine black line and bound in bright red, blue or green binding would make a very charming and attractive apron of this type.

Skirts on Belts

There is a tendency in Paris to hang skirts from the waist again, after months of hanging them from the shoulders. Narrow sewed on belts which clasp somewhere close to a normal waistline are the style on the new tailored and sports things. Circular skirts nearly all fasten on belts at the waist.

Dairy Squibs

Salt is a profitable addition to the daily ration of the dairy cow.

To aid digestion and to stimulate appetite, keep salt before dairy cows at all times.

Dairymen who tuberculin-test their herds are in line for better profits and have the satisfaction of knowing that disease does not lurk in their herds.

Cow testing increases the average production of the dairy herd, first, by eliminating the low producing cows and second, by enabling the farmer to select the foundation animals for his herd on the basis of performance.

If you are lacking in suitable rough age, do not put too much faith in straw and coarse corn fodder.

Only the best proved sires can be relied on to increase the production of daughters over that of dams having a yearly production of 400 pounds of butterfat.

Properly cured hay and green food carry factors that are not only beneficial to the proper development of calves, but are also necessary for proper production.

Energy, Where Does It Go?

For instance, set a wound-up clock spring in acid, and the spring will be eaten up. But what of the energy? The energy isn't destroyed. As the spring is eaten away, the energy which was put into the spring by winding it up is gradually dissipated. Scientists say it takes the form of heat, which would be absorbed by the acid.—Grit.

Pedometer Measurement

In one form of pedometer an oscillating weight affected by the motion of the body causes the index to advance a certain distance at each step. In many instruments an adjustment is possible to the length of the step and so the distance is directly measured.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS "Help You Stay Well"

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

When Women Went Back to the Kitchen

The kitchen, for many years, was the battleground of feminism. The Mid Victorian's woman's famous trinity of "church, children and kitchen" gradually gave way before the battler of "Come Out of the Kitchen" and women did come out in ever increasing numbers until the World War and the scarcity of maids sent most of them scurrying back in again.

After all, women concluded, the kitchen was the workshop of the home, but if they could not change conditions, at least they could change the kitchen, which was responsible for the modern slogan, "Color in your kitchen."

Today it is surprising to note the charming decorative effects that can be achieved by adapting the old fashioned ginghams and percales of our childhood, into crisp, ruffy drapes or breakfast doilies. If your kitchen seems drab and cheerless, take a stroll thru our Cotton Goods Department. At a trifling cost you can transform it into one of the most charming rooms in your house.

Can you not see "cockcomb red" in your mind; "bishop purple," "wood thrush brown" or "Cheopatra blue"?

Satin or satin-faced crepe combines so well with these velvets, and if there proves to be a spot that seems to lack something, that is the place either for a rhinestone ornament or a velvet bow; you may have your choice, for both are equally good. Dame Fashion saw a most modish gown of simple and perfect lines which looked not so hard for the home dressmaker. It was a black velvet dress, really one piece, though it simulated two, and from the flat belt of velvet at the low waistline there frilled out a pretty four-inch wide knife plaiting of satin, while at the side front of the skirt there was a straight panel of the same width plaits, running up and down.

And New York is naming now such pretty dresses as "Sunday-Night Frocks." They are long-sleeved, and have such a gracious appearance of adaptation for a time of special pleasure, yet after all, an informal function.

MARYLAND BOYS SELL PINE CONES

Find Value in Material Heretofore Wasted.

Salisbury, Md.—Farmer boys of this and the other eastern shore counties of Maryland may develop, according to County Agent J. P. Brown, an exceedingly profitable enterprise by following the lead of Dorchester county boys, who have found something with a sales value which previously had been thrown away.

Acting under the direction of W. R. McKnight, agricultural agent of Dorchester county, pine cones are being collected by farm boys of that county and shipped to the state forestry nursery at College Park, where the seeds are extracted by University of Maryland experts.

The seed thus extracted from the cones will be used in growing loblolly pine seedlings for future sale and distribution to farmers of the Eastern Shore, who in turn will use the trees to beautify highways and their own farms. A good seed year, according to the state assistant forester, occurs once in about three years and, therefore, it is necessary for the department to lay in a three-year supply of seed.

A number of forest plantations started from seedlings from the state department are now growing well in various counties.

Seventeen members of the 4-H clubs, at Hooper's Island and Crapo, have just shipped 145 bushels of the cones to F. B. Trenk, assistant state forester, who is now settling with the shippers on a basis of 85 cents a bushel. It is said that from the standpoint of time expended the industry is the most profitable in which 4-H club members have been engaged during the year.

Most of the cones are delivered to neighboring schools, whence they are sent to College Park.

Dorchester is said to be the first county in which 4-H club members have been engaged in actual forestry work with their other duties along agricultural lines, and it is said there are few states in which work has been done.

Many Hogs in Virginia Dying From Cholera

Cape Charles, Va.—With approximately 2,000 hogs, valued at $50,000, already dead in Northampton county, and many more sick and dying daily from cholera, numerous farmers of this section will have almost empty pork houses for the winter and the main meat supply of the county is at a premium as far as the domestic porkers are concerned.

Hog cholera started in lower Northampton county in the late fall and spread throughout all sections, taking a toll of porkers at almost every farmhouse and in many instances wiping out the entire pen. One farmer buried a hundred head recently within a two-week period and the shortage of hog meat in the county has reached an alarming state.

The two county veterinarians are busy injecting serum in the animals that have escaped the disease thus far with the hope of saving them, but more than half of the hogs of the county have died, it is said.

Leading farmers and the county farm agent are taking steps to have all hogs of Northampton vaccinated with the hope of eliminating cholera to protect next year's supply of porkers.

French Farmers Worry as Prices Decrease

Paris.—French farmers are worried over a fall of 30 to 35 per cent in all farm products since last May.

M. Pierre de Monicault, member of the chamber of deputies and regarded in France as speaking with greater authority on farm affairs than any other man in public life, declares the reduction has brought about a destructive crisis in French agriculture. "It has resulted," he says, "in an intense movement from the farm to town. The number of farms for sale increase daily. The best farmers, those who have been more or less successful in the past, are the ones who are abandoning their fields to seek a happier fortune in the city."

While he blames failure of lower production costs to accompany the fall in agricultural produce as the immediate cause of the present crisis, M. de Monicault attaches considerable responsibility to the lack of suitable farm credits.

Industrial enterprises obtaining capital through issuance of stock are not required to pay until the undertaking is profitable, whereas the farmer who gets credit must pay when his crop is gathered, regardless of success or failure, he says.

Letter Taken From Bottom of Sea Is Delivered

Oakland, Calif.—A letter that had lain at the bottom of the Mediterranean sea for more than ten years is back in the possession of its writer, Ronald Wilkins, here. Mr. Wilkins wrote the letter to his mother, Mrs. A. Wilkins of London, while he was in a hospital recovering from a wound received at Salonika. The transport which carried the letter was torpedoed and sunk. A few months ago the ship was raised and the decipherable mail delivered. When Mrs. Wilkins received the letter she forwarded it to her son here.

Dame Fashion Smiles

which were called gems.

Dame Fashion decided this week it was not fair to let the lampshades wear all the pretty make-believe jewels that are made for them, so when she saw that those clever Czechoslovakians had made lamp cord pendants, partly of big mock emeralds, and partly of those long slim glass beads which Civil-war-time women called "bugles," and that those "across-the-sea" folk announced these were "radium-filled," to shine in the dark, she adopted one at once. She knotted the cord into a bow, to pin at her collar, so to wear the pendant on the front of her dress.

Since radium costs about a million dollars and these glowing beads cost an exceedingly few cents, those clever Czechs have probably used phosphorus or something, but Dame Fashion has found her new style pendant with its mysterious glow arouses a good deal of interest. Once upon a time there was an old lady who heard so much about Jamestown, N. Y., on its beautiful lake, that she said if she never got to heaven she hoped she would get as far as Jamestown. This is much the way Dame Fashion feels about Czechoslovakia. Last summer a friend of hers from Washington, D. C., took an extended tour in Europe. On her return Dame Fortune asked her which city she preferred, fully expecting to hear Paris or Florence named.

"Prague," she replied, with great promptness. And by the way, she made it rhyme with the first syllable of "gargle"—not an elegant comparison, perhaps, but the only one that comes to mind with just that mixture of broad "a" and hard "g." Dame Fortune had always made it sound like "praying," but now she tries to say it like the Czechoslovakians.

During all the winter days, tens of thousands of us will buy costume jewels and beads from Czechoslovakia, for they certainly do not confine their energies to lamp-shade cords. Dame Fashion stood last week in a highly exclusive shop and let wonderful globes of color from that country slide through her fingers. They must have been artists for generations. The gift shops are full of graceful figures of their making. Perhaps you have rich metallic ornaments on your favorite gowns, or your best hat gleams with metal. More than likely they were dark-eyed Czechoslovakians who created them. But Dame Fortune is still wondering what is inside her pendant, to make it glow.

Betsy Tucker Apron Is Favorite With Women

A "Betsy Tucker" is everything an apron should be, says the Woman's Home Companion. It's comfortable, it has two roomy pockets, it can be made of crisp washable material, it's easy to adjust and it has a touch of sprightly color. The making of the apron requires only a short session at the sewing machine. A first-quality gingham showing a white surface checked with a fine black line and bound in bright red, blue or green binding would make a very charming and attractive apron of this type.

Skirts on Belts

There is a tendency in Paris to hang skirts from the waist again, after months of hanging them from the shoulders. Narrow sewed on belts which clasp somewhere close to a normal waistline are the style on the new tailored and sports things. Circular skirts nearly all fasten on belts at the waist.

Dairy Squibs

Salt is a profitable addition to the daily ration of the dairy cow.

To aid digestion and to stimulate appetite, keep salt before dairy cows at all times.

Dairymen who tuberculin-test their herds are in line for better profits and have the satisfaction of knowing that disease does not lurk in their herds.

Cow testing increases the average production of the dairy herd, first, by eliminating the low producing cows and second, by enabling the farmer to select the foundation animals for his herd on the basis of performance.

If you are lacking in suitable roughage, do not put too much faith in straw and coarse corn fodder.

Only the best proved sires can be relied on to increase the production of daughters over that of dams having a yearly production of 400 pounds of butterfat.

Properly cured hay and green food carry factors that are not only beneficial to the proper development of calves, but are also necessary for proper production.

Energy, Where Does It Go?

For instance, set a wound-up clock spring in acid, and the spring will be eaten up. But what of the energy? The energy isn't destroyed. As the spring is eaten away, the energy which was put into the spring by winding it up is gradually dissipated. Scientists say it takes the form of heat, which would be absorbed by the acid.—Grit.

Pedometer Measurement

In one form of pedometer an oscillating weight affected by the motion of the body causes the index to advance a certain distance at each step. In many instruments an adjustment is possible to the length of the step and so the distance is directly measured.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS "Help You Stay Well"

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

When Women Went Back to the Kitchen

The kitchen, for many years, was the battleground of feminism. The Mid Victorian's woman's famous trinity of "church, children and kitchen" gradually gave way before the battlecry of "Come Out of the Kitchen" and women did come out in ever increasing numbers until the World War and the scarcity of maids sent most of them scurrying back in again.

After all, women concluded, the kitchen was the workshop of the home, but if they could not change conditions, at least they could change the kitchen, which was responsible for the modern slogan, "Color in your kitchen."

Today it is surprising to note the charming decorative effects that can be achieved by adapting the old fashioned gingham and percales of our childhood, into crisp, ruffy drapes or breakfast doilies. If your kitchen seems drab and cheerless, take a stroll thru our Cotton Goods Department. At a trifling cost you can transform it into one of the most charming rooms in your house.

GAS STOVE EXPLOSION HALTS WEDDING DANCE

Forty Couples Thrown to Floor When Blast Damages Fort Ripley Hall

MEN REVELERS CHECK BLAZE

Front of Building Partly Blown Out; Dance Resumed After Danger Passed

Forty couples, celebrating at a wedding dance last evening at the Fort Ripley hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ignatz Thesing, were thrown to the floor when a gasoline stove exploded in a kitchen below the hall, blowing the front out of the building and causing a fire which was quickly extinguished.

The dance was in progress in the hall above Johnson's hardware store. Coffee to be served the dancers was cooking on the stove in the kitchen. No one was in the kitchen when the explosion occurred.

The floor of the dance hall raised several inches and dropped back into place but many of the dancers were thrown off their feet. Confusion which followed the blast was quickly subsided and the merry-makers left the hall quietly.

After the men revelers extinguished the fire, the dance was resumed.

CHANGE SMOKERS' TASTES

Dry Law Has Developed a Serious Problem for Cigar Manufacturing Industry, Trade Announcement

National prohibition appears to have so affected smokers' tastes and habits as to give the cigar manufacturing industry considerable concern.

According to an analysis made by one of the largest American cigar manufacturers, a new type of cigar is now in demand from the standpoint of both taste and economy.

"No longer," says this manufacturer in his announcement, to his trade, "does one any more hear the once, oft-repeated, 'I'll take a cigar,' so common in the days of the brass rail, when many smokers felt it a good thing to switch from drinks to a cigar."

"In those days when a large number of smokers were accustomed to whetting up their appetites with strong beverages and stuffing themselves with highly-seasoned foods, they naturally wanted the old-fashioned long, strong cigar, and had the time to smoke it."

"Now, it is different; with the great change in their tastes, as the result of prohibition, a large majority of smokers seem to want a mild cigar. Already one is beginning to see on every hand the employment of such terms as 'mild,' 'mellow,' 'smooth,' etc., in cigar advertisements. But mildness is not all that present day smokers want in a cigar; men's habits, as well as their tastes, have been so changed that they want a shorter cigar than the pre-war, pre Volstead type."

"Motoring, golfing, and other outdoor diversions take men so much out into the open and modern short business contacts, and the passing of former social habits and customs so lessen their time for smoking indoors, that a short cigar of the highest quality, at a cost of no more than a nickel, has become an economic necessity."

In order to meet the growing demand in this territory for just that type of cigar, the manufacturer of the Charles Denby cigar, that has been so extensively advertised for years in the leading newspapers, announces in the columns of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch a Junior size of the Denby, and is now distributing it to the retail trade in this section, through the wholesale distributing firm of Stone-Ordean-Wells, Duluth, Minn.

RANGE MEN BACK CALF CLUB WORK

Crosby Commercial Adopts Project as One of Major Phases of Year's Work

WILL AID IN FINANCE

Show in August to be Followed by Banquet for Winners and State Fair Trip

The Commercial club of Crosby has adopted the Dairy Calf club project as a phase of work that they intend to put over this coming year. The range business men realize that the success of their community does not depend upon the mining industry alone but also upon a successful agricultural condition. They realize that dairying is the foundation for all successful agriculture in Crow Wing county and they know that by encouraging the boys and girls of the farm to adopt the Dairy Calf club work it tends toward better success in dairying and they help their community to that extent.

Boys and girls between the ages of ten and twenty are eligible to enter these Calf clubs. Dairy calves of the Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey breeds are to be chosen. Heifer calves must be selected. These calves need not be purebreds but should be well selected from high grades. These calves must have been born by July 1, 1927 and not later than February 1, 1928. Calves chosen in the earlier part of this period are preferable.

The Crosby Commercial club will help finance any boy or girl wishing to get a calf and who does not have the money to do so. Any boy or girl wanting to enter and secure details, should write County Agent Roth or see Mr. Lennox, butter-maker for the Cuyuna Cooperative Creamery of Crosby.

County Agent Roth will give instructions from time to time to the clubs on taking care of the calf, feeding of the calf, and will also give aid to the selecting of the calves by the boys and girls. He will give any assistance wanted in the Calf club project.

The Commercial club of Crosby will entertain the winners at a banquet, will offer prizes for the winners and will hold a big Calf club show in August where all the calves will be exhibited. This is a wonderful opportunity for boys and girls to enter this project. Winners will secure free trips to the State Fair. With all these opportunities, the winning of prizes and honors in the county, the boys and girls also learn the care of raising a calf and become the owner of a very fine animal. For entries write County Agent Roth or see Mr. Lennox. All entries must be in by March 15.

Henry Magnan Enters Plea of Guilty to Theft of Skunk Hides

A fine of $10 and costs plus $2.50 for loss of a mattress by fire was imposed yesterday afternoon in municipal court upon William McDougal, salesman when he pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication. McDougal was picked up by the police in an intoxicated condition and placed in one of the cells of the city jail. He fell asleep with a burning cigarette in his mouth which fell to the mattress and started a blaze. The man slept through it all but was rescued by jail officials.

Henry Jasompe was fined $20 and costs for having in his possession two muskrat pelts taken in closed season.

Henry Magnan entered a plea of guilty to the charge of theft of a number of skunk hides to the value of $25 from the granary on the farm of H. V. Flansburg, December 5, 1927. He was fined $75 or 60 days by Judge J. H. Warner and the sentence suspended for one year pending good behavior.

Company Will Continue Large Advertising Campaign in Newspapers

A trip to the salesmen convention at Kansas City was the prize won by J. C. Thompson, agent for the Sinclair Refining Company, for the largest percent increase of sales in the Minneapolis territory. While there he was the guest of District Manager J. M. Woodruff during his four days stay and they were royally entertained at the Athletic club free of all costs.

One of the important points brought out at this convention was that the advertising for 1928 should be done more in the daily newspapers than magazines because this brought the ads directly to the consumers of the product and the people taking the papers were the best customers. Also it is a daily reminder of the product. The 1927 sales were more than double those of 1926 and prospects are very good for the coming year. The Sinclair oils are now represented in every state in the Union, in Canada and many of the foreign countries.

WILL AID IN FINANCE

Show in August to be Followed by Banquet for Winners and State Fair Trip

The Commercial club of Crosby has adopted the Dairy Calf club project as a phase of work that they intend to put over this coming year. The range business men realize that the success of their community does not depend upon the mining industry alone but also upon a successful agricultural condition. They realize that dairying is the foundation for all successful agriculture in Crow Wing county and they know that by encouraging the boys and girls of the farm to adopt the Dairy Calf club work it tends toward better success in dairying and they help their community to that extent.

Boys and girls between the ages of ten and twenty are eligible to enter these Calf clubs. Dairy calves of the Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey breeds are to be chosen. Heifer calves must be selected. These calves need not be purebreds but should be well selected from high grades. These calves must have been born by July 1, 1927 and not later than February 1, 1928. Calves chosen in the earlier part of this period are preferable.

The Crosby Commercial club will help finance any boy or girl wishing to get a calf and who does not have the money to do so. Any boy or girl wanting to enter and secure details, should write County Agent Roth or see Mr. Lennox, butter-maker for the Cuyuna Cooperative Creamery of Crosby.

County Agent Roth will give instructions from time to time to the clubs on taking care of the calf, feeding of the calf, and will also give aid to the selecting of the calves by the boys and girls. He will give any assistance wanted in the Calf club project.

The Commercial club of Crosby will entertain the winners at a banquet, will offer prizes for the winners and will hold a big Calf club show in August where all the calves will be exhibited. This is a wonderful opportunity for boys and girls to enter this project. Winners will secure free trips to the State Fair. With all these opportunities, the winning of prizes and honors in the county, the boys and girls also learn the care of raising a calf and become the owner of a very fine animal. For entries write County Agent Roth or see Mr. Lennox. All entries must be in by March 15.

DRUNK ASSESSED $2.50 FOR MATTRESS

Damages Resulting From Fire Started by Cigarette in Sleeping Man's Mouth

FINED $10 AND COSTS

Henry Magnan Enters Plea of Guilty to Theft of Skunk Hides

A fine of $10 and costs plus $2.50 for loss of a mattress by fire was imposed yesterday afternoon in municipal court upon William McDougal, salesman when he pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication.

McDougal was picked up by the police in an intoxicated condition and placed in one of the cells of the city jail. He fell asleep with a burning cigarette in his mouth which fell to the mattress and started a blaze. The man slept through it all but was rescued by jail officials.

Henry Jasont was fined $20 and costs for having in his possession two muskrat pelts taken in closed season.

Henry Magnan entered a plea of guilty to the charge of theft of a number of skunk hides to the value of $25 from the granary on the farm of H. V. Flansburg, December 5, 1927. He was fined $75 or 60 days by Judge J. H. Warner and the sentence suspended for one year pending good behavior.

BRAINERD AGENT GAINS REWARD

J. C. Thompson, of Sinclair Refining Co., Shows Large Increase of Sales

WINS KANSAS CITY TRIP

Company Will Continue Large Advertising Campaign in Newspapers

A trip to the salesman convention at Kansas City was the prize won by J. C. Thompson, agent for the Sinclair Refining Company, for the largest percent increase of sales in the Minneapolis territory. While there he was the guest of District Manager J. M. Woodruff during his four days stay and they were royally entertained at the Athletic club free of all costs.

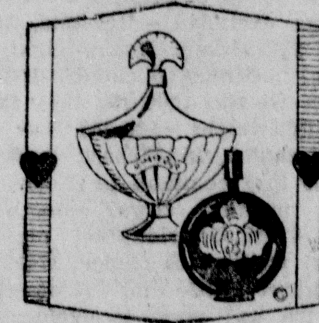

One of the important points brought out at this convention was that the advertising for 1928 should be done more in the daily newspapers than magazines because this brought the ads directly to the consumers of the product and the people taking the papers were the best customers. Also it is a daily reminder of the product. The 1927 sales were more than double those of 1926 and prospects are very good for the coming year. The Sinclair oils are now represented in every state in the Union, in Canada and many of the foreign countries.

Suggestive Prizes for Valentine Card Parties

E. F. GATES

There were nine hundred and sixteen salesmen at the convention at Kansas City from the western district.

URGES SANDING OF WALKS

Citizens Requested to Place Sand or Ashes on Sidewalks in Front of Homes

Due to the slippery condition of the streets and in view of prevention of accidents, City Engineer R. T. Campbell today requested citizens to sprinkle sand or ashes on their walks in front of their homes.

The sprinkling of sand on the downtown sidewalks by city employees has given relief to the slippery condition existing.

Valentine Party

The Standard Bearers will give a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. Ben Evans, 621 Kingwood street, Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

WRESTLING CARD GETS SPOTLIGHT AT PEQUOT FRIDAY

FRED ROSS STATE LIGHTWEIGHT
CHAMP TO MEET "DUD"
ROBIDEAU IN HEADLINER

YOUNG EVANS VS. ED. KNUTSON
IN MAT PRELIMINARY; 5
MILING EVENTS BOOKED

Fred Ross lightweight wrestling title holder for the State of Minnesota, tipping the scales at 130 pounds, who won the championship at a wrestling elimination contest for representation in a tournament to include seven states two years ago will be seen in action Friday night at the Woodmen's hall, Pequot in the headliner in a wrestling and boxing bill that will attract attention throughout three counties. "Dud" Robideau, 180 pounder who hails from Pine River will oppose him on the mat. Ross's title will not be at stake.

Ross in an interview with the Brainerd Dispatch yesterday stated that he hoped to throw the big fellow in spite of the odds in weight. He believes that science will prove conqueror over weight and brawn.

The match will be decided by two out of three falls and will be limited to one hour's competition.

Young Evans, of Pine River and Ed. Knutson, Pequot will meet in a preliminary wrestling bout. Four miling events are scheduled as preliminaries.

BALLYHOO ART IN FIELD OF AMATEURS

HERETOFORE THE STUFF WAS A
DISTINCT ALLY OF PRO-
FESSIONALISM ONLY

NOW CENTERS ON SUPPOSED
GRUDGE BETWEEN PELTZER
AND DODGE

By BERT M. DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Feb. 9.—(U.P.)—The art of ballyhoo—heretofore a distinct ally of professionalism—has invaded the amateur field, and the result was expected to be a record breaking crowd for the match race between Dr. Otto Peltzer and Ray Dodge, tomorrow night.

The ballyhoo centered around a supposed grudge between the two runners, which developed after Peltzer was alleged to have elbowed Dodge off the track in a recent race in New York.

Dodge flatly accused the German of a foul.

"I elbowed Peltzer until the final lap," Dodge said. "Then he elbowed me and pushed me off the boards onto the tile infield. My spikes slipped and I lost ten yards. I made up part of the distance but failed to pass the German."

Peltzer has a different view, although he did not issue a flat denial that he shoved Dodge.

"Crowding and pushing are almost unpreventable in a race held on a small track," he said. "Dodge bumped me a couple of times but it was accidental."

"Some jostling on the first turn," "some postling on the first turn," but said it was due to the eagerness of everybody to get the leading pole position.

"In the first dash for the pole," he said, "it is always give and take." However, he intimated, the "give and take" doesn't apply to the final lap.

So today there was a general issuing of insinuations and denials which again brings up the ballyhoo subject.

It seems that someone has recognized that the word "grudge" has a distinct appeal to the American public and the news was spread that the Peltzer-Dodge race would be a grudge affair.

"Anyone who ever has seen me run," Peltzer said, "knows that I do not follow the orthodox style of running. Perhaps, with my arms swinging sideways in my natural style, I did bump Dodge, but it was accidental. I assure you, however, that there will be no bumping tomorrow night because there will be no one close enough to me to get bumped."

Dodge declared he would be in front so far that "there will be no bumping." He said he would retire immediately after the race and "go out in a blaze of glory by beating the German."

For some time Dodge has been one of this country's best middle-distance men. A member of the last Olympic team, he was considered a certain contender for this year's team, but he said business had forced his retirement from the track.

Three other starters will compete in the race with Peltzer and Dodge. They are Joe Sivak, Ray Conger, and Leo Larivee, all of Chicago.

Plants for the House

Crocuses grow very well in the house. They should be planted in light, rich soil just covering the bulbs. When planted too deep they do not flower. Lilies of the valley will grow in the house planted in coconut fiber. Ask your seedman to procure a half dozen pipes for you and plant them in a small bowl.

The Tawhoo's Warning

Persons living in the region of the Caribbean owe much to birds called the tawhoo. According to an article in St. Nicholas, these birds always fly to the mainland when they sense a hurricane, arriving while the inhabitants are enjoying the period of sunshine and windless weather which always comes just before the storm breaks.

Heals Eczema In 7 Days or Less

Or Your Money Back

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers that are discharging are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. H. P. Dunn can supply you at any time.

WRESTLING CARD GETS SPOTLIGHT AT PEQUOT FRIDAY

FRED ROSS STATE LIGHTWEIGHT
CHAMP TO MEET "DUD"
ROBIDEAU IN HEADLINER

YOUNG EVANS VS. ED. KNUTSON
IN MAT PRELIMINARY; 5
MILLING EVENTS BOOKED

Fred Ross lightweight wrestling title holder for the State of Minnesota, tipping the scales at 130 pounds, who won the championship at a wrestling elimination contest for representation in a tournament to include seven states two years ago will be seen in action Friday night at the Woodmen's hall, Pequot in the headliner in a wrestling and boxing bill that will attract attention throughout three counties.

"Dud" Robideau, 180 pounder who hails from Pine River will oppose him on the mat. Ross's title will not be at stake.

Ross in an interview with the Brainerd Dispatch yesterday stated that he hoped to throw the big fellow in spite of the odds in weight. He believes that science will prove conqueror over weight and brawn.

The match will be decided by two out of three falls and will be limited to one hour's competition.

Young Evans, of Pine River and Ed. Knutson, Pequot will meet in a preliminary wrestling bout. Four milling events are scheduled as preliminaries.

BALLYHOO ART IN FIELD OF AMATEURS

HERETOFORE THE STUFF WAS A
DISTINCT ALLY OF PRO-
FESSIONALISM ONLY

NOW CENTERS ON SUPPOSED
GRUDGE BETWEEN PELTZER
AND DODGE

By BERT M. DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Feb. 9.—(C.P.)—The art of ballyhoo—heretofore a distinct ally of professionalism—has invaded the amateur field, and the result was expected to be a record breaking crowd for the match race between Dr. Otto Peltzer and Ray Dodge, tomorrow night.

The ballyhoo centered around a supposed grudge between the two runners, which developed after Peltzer was alleged to have elbowed Dodge off the track in a recent race in New York.

Dodge flatly accused the German of a foul.

"I led Peltzer until the final lap," Dodge said. "Then he elbowed me and pushed me off the boards onto the tile infield. My spikes slipped and I lost ten yards. I made up part of the distance but failed to pass the German."

Peltzer has a different view, although he did not issue a flat denial that he shoved Dodge.

"Crowding and pushing are almost unpreventable in a race held on a small track," he said. "Dodge bumped me a couple of times but it was accidental."

"Some jostling on the first turn," "some postling on the first turn," but said it was due to the eagerness of everybody to get the leading pole position.

"In the first dash for the pole," he said, "it is always give and take."

However, he intimated, the "give and take" doesn't apply to the final lap.

So today there was a general issuing of insinuations and denials which again brings up the ballyhoo subject.

It seems that someone has recognized that the word "grudge" has a distinct appeal to the American public and the news was spread that the Peltzer-Dodge race would be a grudge affair.

"Anyone who ever has seen me run," Peltzer said, "knows that I do not follow the orthodox style of running. Perhaps, with my arms swinging sideways in my natural style, I did bump Dodge, but it was accidental. I assure you, however, that there will be no bumping tomorrow night because there will be no one close enough to me to get bumped."

Dodge declared he would be in front so far that "there will be no bumping." He said he would retire immediately after the race and "go out in a blaze of glory by beating the German."

For some time Dodge has been one of this country's best middle-distance men. A member of the last Olympic team, he was considered a certain contender for this year's team, but he said business had forced his retirement from the track.

Three other starters will compete in the race with Peltzer and Dodge. They are Joe Sivak, Ray Conger, and Leo Lariviee, all of Chicago.

Plants for the House
Crocuses grow very well in the house. They should be planted in light, rich soil just covering the bulbs. When planted too deep they do not flower. Lilies of the valley will grow in the house planted in coconut fiber. Ask your seedman to procure a half dozen pipes for you and plant them in a small bowl.
